"Of all the horrid, hideous notes of woe, Sadder than owl-songs or the midnight blast;
Is that portentous phrase, 'I told you so.'"

Since nobody knows it were silly to make portentous prophecy of what is going to happen in once
"Merrie England," but what labor in other countries can't seem to comprehend is that if Britain falls down and breaks her crown Europe will come tumbling after. As Wordsworth wrote in 1833—

"Can, I ask
This face of rural beauty be a mask
For discontent, and poverty, and crime;
These spreading towns a cloak for lawless will?
Forbid it, Heaven!—and Merry England still Shall be thy rightful name, in prose and rhyme."

Cousin Tom Blanton is still barking on the trail of Fenning. Here's a tireless beagle on a scent!
"Nougher so bery a man as he ther was,
And yet he semed bisier than he was."

Two Passaic school children are arrested for throwing tin cans at strike breakers. We never let John Bull get ahead of us.

As a matter of fact, the British general strike couldn't be any more like the one scheduled for the United States in 1919 if William Z.
Foster had planned it himself.

"I have no fear of revolutions," remarked Champ Clark on an historic occasion, when he was helping to organize one, "for men of our blood revolutionize in the right direction," so maybe England can get some consolation from the reflection that the Anglo-Saxon is a supporter of law and order even when he is undertaking to overthrow it.

"Cannon, Cannon, beat him if you can,

But you can't beat Cannon, Cannon's the boy for me!"

Champ Clark's sage remark naturally recalls that his celebrated revolution was a general strike against a more powerful Czar than King George ever set himself up to be, and that Uncle Joe, once monarch of all he surveyed, celebrates his 90th birthday in the peace and quiet of his Illinois home, universally beloved, the Grand Old Man of American statesmanship. He lost the Republican nomination for President in 1908, and his vast powers, two years later, but he can never lose the love and affection of the plain people whose faithful and unselfish servant he was for so many eventful years. As the campaign song put it, "you can't beat him."

"For this, thou shalt from all things suck
Marrow of mirth and laughter;
And whoso'er thou moust, good luck Shall fling her old shoe after."

Speaking of that campaign of 1908, William Howard Taft doubtless was born with a horseshoe in one hand and the left hind foot of a graveyard rabbit in the other, for certainly when Destiny gets ready to hand him anything she always uses a solid gold platter. The Chief Justice gets his wages raised.

The Georgetown R. O. T. C. presents a most timely picture of a nation's preparedness against enemies of the Republic from within or without, but it is probably no argument to the pacifists that if America had had this system of training before the world war countless millions of money and thousands of precious lives would have been saved.

If you were the Prince of Wales listening to a speech in the Commons and the orator suddenly demanded that you be fired from your job wouldn't it jar you? Still, there doesn't seem to be a real Jack Cade in the whole labor party.

As a matter of fact royalty is beginning to recover some of its former standing—the Reichstag refuses to countenance the seizure of the Hohenzollern swag without pay.

The French government seeks every possible remedy for strengthening the ailing franc without once thinking of Mellon's food.

The 65 Princeton seniors who admit that they would marry for money must be hogs for work.

F. Scott McBride proudly points to the fact that in the three recent primaries the dry candidates were triumphant, but would they measure up to Senator Bruce's test of 1-2 of 3 per cent of sincerity?

Mrs. Stillman insists on bringing Baby Guy to live with her and her husband. "God bless our home!"

FENNING PROCEDURE TO BE SET TUESDAY BY JUDICIARY BODY

House Is Unanimous in Ordering Impeachment Investigation.

INQUIRY IS EXPECTED TO COVER WIDE FIELD

Any Undue Advantage of Ab- sence of Law Will Be Considered.

The House judiciary committee will determine Tuesday its procedure against Commissioner Frederick A. Fenning. It was authorized by a unanimous vote of the House yesterday to proceed with an "impeachment" investigation.

While the committee will proceed on the impeachment theory, its inquiry will be to determine whether the House should recommend to the President that the commissioner be dismissed from office. With this end in view, it was pointed out, the committee's inquiry may be much broader than a straight impeachment proceeding would permit.

The indications are that the committee by no means will confine itself to actual alleged violations of the law, but will seek to get the full picture—of whether mockery was made of the absence of law, whether the wholesale guardianship practice and the District commissionership do or do not square and, finally, whether Mr. Fenning is fitted temperamentally for public office. This was the scope of the impeachment inquiry against Federal Judge English, whose case is now pending before the Senate.

Nonpartisanship Pointed To.

Whether the inquiry is to be pursued by the full committee headed by Representative George S. Graham, of Pennsylvania, one of the four standing subcommittees or a special subcommittee will be determined Tuesday. Of the four standing committees three are of five members, three Republicans and two Democrats, while the fourth is made up of seven members, the party ratio being four and three.

It is the boast of this committee that partisanship has no influence and that its members look at things with dispassionate legal minds.

As to the charges of actual law violations, the one relating to the commissioner's receiving 25 per cent commission from every bond which he had to make as guardian stands out. He has admitted receiving the commission, but he has not admitted that it was in violation of the law.

The dual practice was a revelation to the District Supreme Court, before whom Mr. Fenning has practiced and which he contended sanctioned his every other act as guardian. Representative Blanton, of Texas, contends that it is a felony punishable by ten years' imprisonment. The court auditor, Herbert L. Davis, has called a hearing on the matter for tomorrow.

Another charge with which the judiciary committee will have to deal is that the commissioner violated the spirit, if not the letter, of statutes limiting, originally to $3 and now to $10, the fee that might

American Sentenced In France as Robber

Rouen, France, May 6 (By A. P.).
Charles Maher, of New York, has been sentenced to five years in jail and ten years banishment from France by the Rouen assizes for participating in an attempt to rob the safe of a motion picture theater here last year. His accomplices, two Italians, were given seven and eight years solitary confinement, respectively, and ten years banishment.

Another accomplice, a Frenchman, was killed by the police when the men were leaving the theater after a fruitless three-hour attempt to open the safe.

6 Detectives Stoned By Mob in Baltimore

Baltimore, Md., May 6 (By A.
P.).—Three plain-clothes policemen and three railroad detectives were stoned and beaten by a mob of 500 negroes this afternoon when they arrested a white man for railroad thefts in south Baltimore. The leaders of the negroes, rounded up later, said they mistook the officers for prohibition agents. Harry Sody, the prisoner, did not escape.

65 PRINCETON SENIORS WOULD WED FOR MONEY

22 Ask "How Much?" in Re- ply to Questionnaire; Jane Cowl Is Favorite.

BLUE EYES PREFERRED

Special to The Washington Post.

Princeton, N. J., May 6.—Women are the favorite study of 32 members of this year's graduating class at Princeton and twice that number, plus one, would marry for money, but 142 would not. Twenty-two seniors answered the latter question with a question, "For how much?"

These and other interesting facts were made public today in the annual senior statistics.

Richard R. Quay, of Sewickley, Pa., was voted the handsomest as well as the most respected man in the class, and was second choice as "the most representative Princeton-ian and the most thorough gentleman."

Livingston T. Merchant, of New York city, chairman of the Princeton senior council and of the Daily Princetonian, was voted the most representative Princetonian, the man who had done most for his class and the best all-around man outside of athletics.

As the best athlete, Thomas S.
Dignan, of Yonkers, N. Y., baseball and football star, ran second to Caleb F. Gates, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., but was voted the laziest, best-built and shapeliest-legged senior.

Class President Walter B. Booth, of Queensboro, Ky., football player, was voted best all-around man, most thorough gentleman, most popular, smoothest, best-natured and biggest politician.

The class decided by 174 to 132 votes a Phi Beta Kappa key was a greater honor than the "varsity."
Its favorite magazine is the Saturday Evening Post, and "Tom Jones" its favorite novel. Jane Cowl its stage choice, Norma Shearer its screen favorite and blue the choicest color of feminine eyes. Bill Roper, gridiron mentor, was chosen as favorite coach, tennis the favorite sport to play and football the best to watch.

Seventy-three seniors are non-smokers and 23 engaged.

Hilton, Radio Burglar, Convicted of Murder

New York, May 6 (By A. P.).—
Paul E. Hilton, "radio burglar," was found guilty of murder in the first degree by a jury in Queens county court today. He killed Patrolman Arthur Kenny, of Brooklyn, in March when Kenny tried to capture him. He was sought for theft of radio sets from numerous homes.

PLANE HULL HURLS 16 INTO RIVER; 3 DIE

Employees of Navy Yard at Philadelphia Lose Lives in Course of Test.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 6 (By A.
P.).—Three civilian employees, in the naval aircraft factory at the Philadelphia navy yard were drowned today when an aluminum hull of an airplane capsized in the Delaware river. The hull was completed today and in tow of a light steamer, off the navy yard, was being tested for water tightness.

Sixteen men were aboard the hull and all were thrown into the water.
Quick action by the crew of the steamer saved thirteen of them.
Those lost were W. Morgan, sheet metal worker; A. Renzi and R.
Langley.

The hull was that of one of the new "superairships" under construction at the navy yard. It is to be a sister ship to the PN-9.

BYRD MAKES FLIGHT IN ARCTIC; WILKINS PLANE DEMOLISHED

Detroit Expedition Head Loses One Machine at Fairbanks.

AMUNDSEN AIRSHIP RESUMES JOURNEY

The Norge Leaves Norway on Last Leg of Its Trip to Spitzbergen.

Oso, Norway, May 6 (By A. P.).
Lieut. Comdr. Richard E. Byrd, who has been making experiments with the Fokker monoplane with which he hopes to explore the arctic regions, today succeeded in making a two-hour trial flight, according to reports received here from his base at Kings bay, Spitzbergen.

The Amundsen-Ellsworth dirigible Norge, which arrived at Vadsø, in northern Norway, at 4:30 o'clock this morning, started on the last lap of its trip to Spitzbergen at 2:56 this afternoon.

It passed over Bear island, midway between Norway and Spitzber-gen, at 10:30 tonight.

The airship, which is to endeavor to take the Amundsen-Ellsworth expedition across the north pole from
Trotts, a suburb of Leningrad, Wednesday morning.

The Alaskan Wrecked.

Fairbanks, Alaska, May 6 (By A.
P.).—The Alaskan, a one-engined plane, of the Detroit arctic expedition, was seriously damaged in an attempt to take off here today.

The propeller of the Alaskan was splintered, its wings torn to shreds, and its landing gear, on the right side, reduced to a tangled wreck.

The Alaskan, in which Capt.
George Hubert Wilkins, leader of the expedition, and Lieut. Carl Benjamin Eielson, aviator, were about to start on a thousand-mile flight in search of land in the Arctic ocean, struck a hummock of soft earth in running for a rise.

Load Had Been Lightened.

The right wing tilted downward, and hit the ground. The landing gear broke down on the same side, this being attributed to resistance.

The Alaskan had made three flights to Point Barrow 525 miles northwest of here, on the first of which she flew out 150 miles over the ocean, but saw no land.

The wreck occurred on the second run of the Alaskan down the field of the Fairbanks Airplane corporation, her load having been lightened after the first.

Another Plane Available

Seattle, May 6 (By A. P.).—The wrecking of the airplane Alaskan today at Fairbanks, Alaska, leaves the Detroit arctic expedition with the airplane Detroitier, a 3-engined monoplane, that so far has not been able to fly over Brooks Range between Fairbanks and Point Barrow.
Capt. George H. Wilkins plans to

Mayo Upholds Right Of Women to Smoke

Rochester, Minn., May 6 (By A.

to smoke as men, Dr. William J.
Mayo, famous Rochester surgeon, believes.

Dr. Mayo expressed his opinion in an address before a regional conference of social workers here.
Many things have come into life in recent years to add to the happiness of individuals and in doing so have brought longer life, he declared.

FEDERAL EMPLOYES COUNCIL APPROVES LORD PENSION PLAN

Will Support Budget Bill Providing Maximum Annuity of $1,000.

IS NOT CONSIDERED ADEQUATE, HOWEVER

Federation to Continue Efforts to Obtain More Liberal Retirement Law.

After giving consideration to pending retirement legislation in all its aspects, the executive council of the National Federation of Federal Employees, meeting here, decided yesterday to support the retirement plan submitted to President Coolidge by Brig. Gen. Herbert M. Lord, director of the budget, with the amendment offered by Representative Lehlbach.

This provides a $1,000 maximum annuity, 3 1/2 per cent deduction from salaries, using 45 as a divi-sor at $1,500 average salary. Although council members stated this by no means represented what is believed to be adequate liberalization of existing retirement law, it does represent some progress in the increase of annuity.

In view of the urgent necessities of those employees already retired and who will retire within the next few years, the council felt bound to support legislation which will partially relieve their financial privations.

To Continue Efforts.

It was made clear that the federation would continue its efforts to obtain for government employees a retirement law that will be fair to employees, and more nearly in keeping with retirement systems now in operation in foreign countries.

States and municipalities in this country, and by an increasing number of private employers.

Abolition of the personnel classification board and transfer of its duties to the civil service commission is another objective of the council which will be in session at federation headquarters in the Labor building, 10 B street southwest, until tomorrow night. Another amendment is compensation schedules of the classification act, fixing $1,500 a year the minimum for all full time adult employees with rates adjusted upward for that figure in accordance with duties and responsibilities of the job.

Transfer of the employees compensation commission to the civil service commission and legislation raising daily travel allowance of government employees from $4 to $6 a day are others mentioned.

Bills incorporating the increases asked for by the Federation will be introduced in the House and Senate by Representative Lehlbach, of New Jersey, and Senator Stanford, of Oregon, in the next few days.

Both the House and Senate leaders of the fight for retirement law revision are confident that they can get a new law enacted before adjournment of the present session.

Finance Minister Quits in Belgium

Brussels, May 6 (By A. P.).—The finance minister, Albert Jansen, resigned today. His action follows the resignations of Henri Carton, minister of colonies, and Baron Edouard Rolin-Jacquemynne, minister of interior.

Following the resignation of the finance minister the Belgian franc, which had been quoted before the bourse opening at 164.50 to the pound sterling, improved to 158.

Washington-Baltimore Boulevard Is Planned

Construction of a new boulevard between Baltimore and Washington, 200 feet wide, was proposed to Gov. Albert C. Ritchie and other Maryland officials, by Burton P.
Porter, of Cleveland, Ohio, at a conference in Baltimore yesterday.

The new boulevard would be built to the west of the present boulevard, along higher and more picturesque ground and would be between the boulevard and Russell road.

Declaring he had ample capital to carry through the plan, Mr. Porter told the Maryland officials that the persons he represented proposed to give the State the land for the 200-foot boulevard if the State would pave it. The interests he represents, he declared, would receive their

UNIONISTS FLATLY REFUSE TO END STRIKE IN BRITAIN; DISORDERS ARE SPREADING

Two Districts in London in a Turmoil During Labor Clashes.

FIRST DEATH CAUSED BY THE OUTBREAKS

Many Injured in Hospitals; Police Use Clubs Freely Against Rioters.

GLASGOW HAS SERIOUS ATTACK ON RAIL DEPOT

Incendiary Fire Reported at Plant of the Times, but Damage Is Slight.

London, May 6 (By the Associated Press).—Two noted streets in the Southeast of London were in turmoil of excitement tonight owing to strike clashes. Several persons were injured and taken to hospitals.

New Kent road and Old Kent road were the centers of the trouble, the origin of which is obscure, but the centerpiece for a time was a blazing motor car.

The two roads run through a poor district, and were packed with people during the excitement, and when the motor car went up in flames hundreds of mounted and foot police started to clear the jam.
There was a wild rush, in which numbers were hurt.

Only One Known Death.

Only one death had been reported as directly due to disorders at the end of the third day of the strike.

The British police are stoically carrying on their duties unarmed throughout England and Scotland and rushing to the relief of volunteer buses and motor cars packed by the hoodlum element in the rougher sections of the cities.

The fire brigade made an official report on the fire which occurred last night in the plant of the London Times in Printing House square. The supposed cause of the fire was incendiary. A roll of print paper in the machine room on the ground floor of the building was damaged before the firemen arrived and flooded the room.

Movement of troops and warships to vantage points for emergency service is going on steadily, but so quietly that it is scarcely noticed.

While there is no disposition on the part of authorities to flaunt the crown forces in the face of the Priests Are Confined In Mexican Barracks

(Special Cable Dispatch.)
Mexico City, May 6.—The priests arrested in Zitacuaro recently have been brought here under military escort and are held in the barracks attached to the military prison of Tlatelolco. An ampara was granted them yesterday which prevents them from being placed in the prison but does not allow them to leave the barracks, where they will remain until their trial, on May 16.

Two Catholics arrested on charges of complicity in the Zitacuaro disorder caused by a move to close the churches there are said to be in the military prison, as their lawyer professes to be unable to locate them.

5 KILLED, 4 INJURED IN COAL-MINE BLAST

Dynamite in Pennsylvania Shaft Sets Off Gas; Men Are Easily Reached.

Pottsville, Pa., May 6 (By A.
P.).—Five miners were killed and four injured by an explosion of gas in the South Penn colliery late today. Two of the injured were seriously hurt. Those who lost their lives were William Coulson and his son, Albert; Edward Green, Bruno Trycko and Albert Brimbo.

First reports were that a number of workers had been entombed and the head of the shaft was soon surrounded by weeping women and children. Colliery officials, however, set the rumors at rest by issuing a statement that all had been accounted for. Rescue parties reached the dead and injured without difficulty.

The explosion was said to have been caused by the discharge of dynamite in a gas laden atmosphere.

Barbed Wire on Buses To Stop London Mobs

London, May 6 (By A. P.).— Motor buses with barbed wire entanglements on their hoods appeared in the streets today as an answer to the young hoodlums who have been stopping buses, uncovering the engines and smashing them with sledge hammers and stones. It is expected that the barbed wire will hold off the attackers until police can arrive.

The General Omnibus Co. of London said that 80 buses were in operation today, 47 of which were damaged in street disturbances. It is expected that stronger police protection will be available tomorrow.

Many youths in plus fours and college blazers were among the crowds, and were especial targets for taunts from the strikers' pickets.
The college men, however, went on collecting fares.

LONDON MISSES PAPERS WHILE RUMORS SPREAD

Government Required to Deny Report That Minister Had Been Beaten.

FIVE KILLINGS DISPROVED

(Special Cable Dispatch.)

London, May 6.—If ever the usefulness of the newspaper was demonstrated, it is now in England, where its absence has left the country at the mercy of the rumor monger. Ever since the strike began the chief work of the government and labor spokesmen has been to deny rumors. Today a government spokesman gravely asserted that it was untrue that a cabinet minister had been badly beaten, or that five policemen had been killed.

These are only samples of the kind of rumors in the air in London and all other British cities. Every half hour brings stories of riots, which investigation proves did not happen, or at best were based on minor street rows, which, in ordinary times would not be worth a line of newspaper space.

True, there have been and still are outbreaks of disorder in the slum areas, where the men are idle, and where, thanks to the government's permission, the public houses remain open and many men are drunk. Buses, lorries, and private cars have been attacked and damaged, and in rare instances destroyed.

New York, May 6 (By A. P.).
Albert Ransdell Fish, a member of the stock exchange firm of Reynolds, Fish & Co., committed suicide today in his apartment in the Hotel Clarendon by opening the arteries of his wrists.

Mr. Fish was said to have been despondent over poor health. He had been advised to go to the mountains and was planning to leave for the Catskills on Wednesday. He was 42 years old.

House Leaders Drop Alien Property Bill

(By the Associated Press.)

House leaders have agreed to pigeon hole for this session the Mills alien property bill and all other measures designed to carry out awards of the German-American mixed claims commission.

This decision removes one of the most controverted subjects before the House, Representative Garner, of Texas, ranking Democrat on the ways and means committee, which has jurisdiction over such legislation, having characterized it as a "stupendous steal," and other Democrats having announced opposition to it.

METHODIST BISHOPS CALL ON PRESIDENT; PRAISE HIS POLICIES

Executive, in Greeting, Says
Adherence to Religious Truths Necessary.

OLD CUSTOM OF CHURCH LEADERS IS RECALLED

Board Later Holds Executive Session Where Missionaries to Orient Report.

Adherence to "the eternal verities of religion" is essential if the strength and stability of the nation is to endure, President Calvin Coolidge told the board of bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church when they called on him at the White House yesterday to pay their respects. The President recalled that this custom of religious leaders calling on the executive is one which originated when Bishop Coke and Bishop Asbury in May, 1789, visited the first President, Washington, to greet him formally and assure him of the support of the Church.

The bishops were received by the President and Mrs. Coolidge in the east room, the presentations being made by Bishop Joseph F. Berry, senior bishop of the church. The bishop, in addressing the President, touched on the visit to George Washington and, speaking of the latter's reception, said that he "replied with fluency and animation." This reference to a possible consciousness of a political and military character and a smile to his lips, while Mrs. Coolidge was plainly amused. The churchmen were quick to see the joking application and joined in a general laugh.

Bishop Berry told the President that the visitors agreed with him, that the United States must continue to maintain an attitude of definite helpfulness toward the world.

Against Alliances.

The bishop said that while the nation has "a passion for the dominance of democracy," it also stands against entangling alliances. While not mentioning the League of Nations by name, the speaker said: "Carefully avoiding entangling alliances of a political and military character, and declining to assume foreign obligations out of harmony with the best ideals of the fathers of the republic, we should, nevertheless, give that inspirational leadership which is so essential to the social and spiritual regeneration of the world in a day like this. You were exactly right when in a public address delivered some months ago you declared that America can not maintain itself in a healthy economic and moral condition by turning all its thoughts upon itself, by making its material prosperity its supreme end, that selfishness is only another name for suicide and that a nation that is morally dead will soon be financially dead."

The bishop also took occasion to praise the attitude of the administration toward legislation generally, and especially toward law enforcement.

President Thanks Bishops.

President Coolidge made no response to the purely political part of the address of Bishop Berry. He said: "It is a pleasure to receive the bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church. For the kind words of a personal nature which Bishop Berry has spoken on behalf of your great and influential organization I am thankful."

"With the keenest gratification I have listened to the renewal of your pledge 'to promote with increasing devotion the spirit of true patriotism.' I am not unimpressed of that historical occasion in May, 1789, when Bishop Coke and Bishop Asbury, on behalf of the first Christian church to greet formally the President of our new republic, called on George Washington and besought for him that divine guidance and support without which the efforts of the founders of the republic would have been in vain."

"I am told it has been a custom for your board of bishops whenever they have been in Washington to call upon the chief executive of the United States and to declare to him their faith in that power which guides our destinies, and to assure the President of their unwavering allegiance."

"From the days of Asbury, whose services in carrying the Word through the length and breadth of our infant nation are commemorated in a statue in this city, your bishops have been constant and understanding men, fighting for the cause of righteousness, justice and humanity."

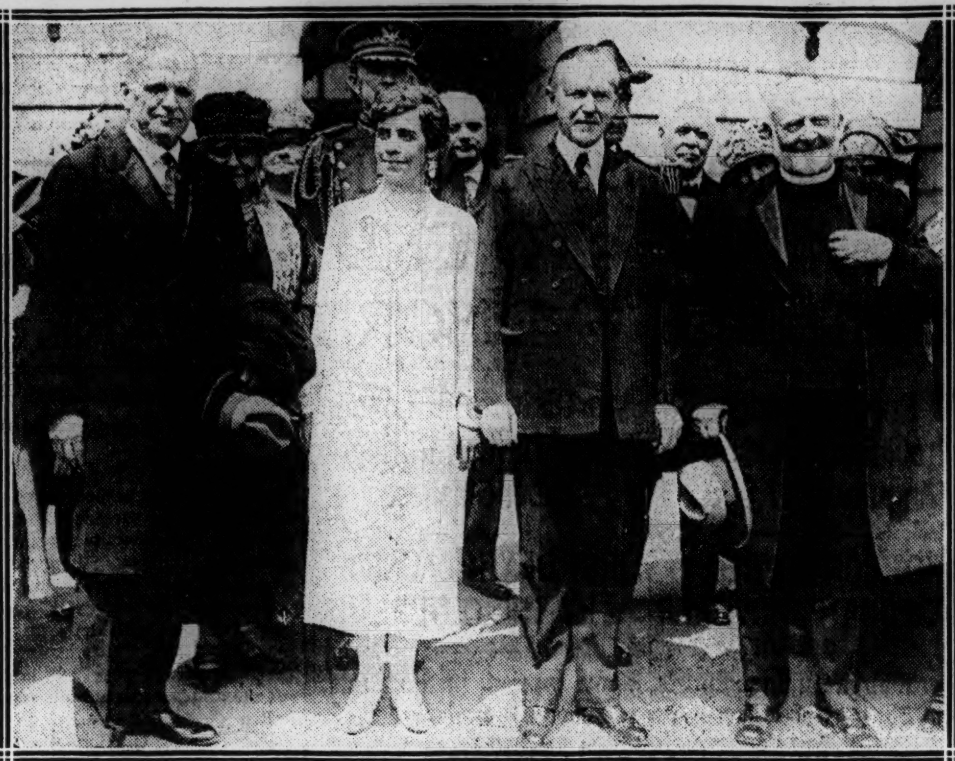

Others Are Praised.

"Other denominations and sects have developed courageous, patriotic leaders whose striking services to humanity and country shall not be forgotten. We have been particularly blessed in that our government always has been able to count on the earnest and active support of the governing bodies as well as all the members of the various faiths enjoying the benefits of the religious freedom guaranteed to them by our Constitution."

"It was in accord with basic truths of the universe that the signers of the Declaration of Independence declared their reliance upon the protection of a divine providence. Founded upon religion, our government has derived strength and stability from the religious nature of its people. If we are to maintain our national existence, we must continue to cherish and pervade all enduring achievement. MAJ. GORDON'S COLLAPSE IS BLAMED ON OVERWORK

Attorney Also Suffering From Cold; Wan Trial Halted
by His Illness.

MAY CONTINUE MONDAY

Overwork is held responsible for the collapse yesterday of United States Attorney Peyton Gordon in his apartment in the Wardman Park hotel. He also is suffering from a severe cold. He was preparing to go to the courthouse for the Wan murder trial when he became weak and fainted.

As a consequence of Maj. Gordon's illness, the trial of Zhang Sun Wan was adjourned in the morning. If Maj. Gordon is recovered sufficiently by Monday, the trial will be resumed then. Meanwhile the jurors are enjoying a holiday.

In addition to prosecuting the Wan case, Maj. Gordon has been forced to carry on the regular administrative duties of his office.

The Wan trial is nearing the end. Wilton J. Lambert and his associates in the defense have only one more important witness to place on the stand. After that will come the rebuttal and surrebuttal testimony. Then will come the arguments of the opposing attorneys and finally the submission of the case to the jury.

The courtroom was crowded to capacity in the past week. Women spectators have been in the majority on several days. Wednesday afternoon a score or more of girls from a fashionable school came into the courtroom with their chaperones. Usually there are a few Chinese in the crowd.

Every trial of Wan has been halted by illness or mishap. In the first trial a juror named Bradshaw broke an arm and delayed the trial for a week. In the last trial a juror who, strangely, also was named Bradshaw, was taken ill and caused a recess of two days.

herents, represented by you, my profound appreciation of their good wishes and of their support of our government and its chief executive. May we all be endowed with the spirit of our Creator and with His wisdom to meet the duties which He has set for us to perform."

Bishop William F. Oldham, of Buenos Aires, Argentina, stressed the friendly relations being fostered in Latin America by the mission schools. He termed the schools "international bridges bringing closer understanding and more friendly relations between American countries."

India Declared Awakening.

An optimistic review of conditions in India was given last night at an open meeting held in Foundry Methodist Episcopal church, Sixteenth and Church streets northwest, by Bishop Frederic B. Fisher, of India.

"An industrial awakening is taking place in India on a vast scale," he said. "Hundreds of thousands of laborers are leaving the farms and pressing toward the mills, which offer higher wages. This means a fundamental change in the social and economic structure of India."

"Jesus Christ has become the religious ideal of the educated and forward-looking youth of India. Christian ethics are fast becoming the standard of individual life and social development. The 300,000,000 of modern India are eagerly awake and yearning for world brotherhood."

An almost equally optimistic report of conditions in the Singapore area was given by Bishop Lowe, who said the missionary schools in that region had resulted in a situation where the prestige of the schools is great and that thousands of Chinese make no protest whatsoever when their children become Christians. The meeting was presided over by the Rev. Frederic Brown Harris, pastor.

President Presented First "Buddy Poppy"

Little Beverly Moffett, daughter of Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, yesterday presented to President Coolidge the first "Buddy Poppy" made for the Veterans of Foreign Wars by the disabled veterans now in the United States Veterans hospital, 81, in New York city.

These poppies are being made in other hospitals also and are to be sold during the period around Memorial day for the purpose of raising funds to carry on the relief work for the disabled veterans and their dependents. Miss Moffett was accompanied to the White House by Capt. Fred Stover, commander in chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and Edwin S. Bettelheim, Jr., Washington representative of the organization.

BUILDINGS MEASURE WILL BE ADJUSTED

Conferees Expected to Settle Differences on Provisions of Bill.

Differences between the provisions of the $165,000,000 public buildings bill, as passed by the House and Senate, will be ironed out in conference without serious difficulty, it was indicated yesterday. The bill was passed by the Senate late Wednesday afternoon and was sent to the House yesterday.

Of the total appropriations, $50,000,000 is to be spent for needed government buildings in Washington at the rate of $10,000,000 a year for five years. Sites and purposes of the new government buildings erected here are to be determined by the public buildings commission.

Actual appropriation to carry out the first year of the buildings program probably will be made in the second deficiency bill which is to be passed before adjournment of this session, Senator Smoot, of Utah, said. Senator Fernald, of Maine, who has had charge of the bill in the Senate, is anxious that money shall be provided for inauguration of the building program as quickly as possible.

Smiddy Is Guest At Class Dinner

Dr. Timothy A. Smiddy, Irish Free State minister to the United States, was the guest of honor and principal speaker last night at the senior "class night" of the class of 1926 at the Catholic university. The affair was given under the auspices of the Dod Noon club.

More Health Care Urged.

Dr. George A. Johnson last night urged the Parent-Teacher association to observe more strictly the rules of health for children, at a meeting of the association in the new Bell school. Miss Sara C. Lewis, principal, presided. Mrs. C. W. Tignor, president of the association, also spoke. Several musical selections were played by the faculty.

Memorial Day Plans Discussed.

Plans for observing Memorial day were discussed last night at a meeting of the Vincent B. Costello unit of the American Legion auxiliary in the Arlington hotel. The unit will place poppies on the graves of world war soldiers in Mount Olivet and Arlington cemeteries. Miss Alice Costello presided.

POLICE COURT BUILDING PROVIDED FOR IN BILL

Zihlman Introduces Measure Authorizing Commissioners to Let Contracts.

WILL SEEK EARLY ACTION

Construction of a new building for the District police court was provided for in a bill introduced in the House yesterday by Representative Zihlman, of Maryland, chairman of the House District committee.

The bill did not provide a specific amount for the building, but authorized the District commissioners to enter into contracts for the erection of the building and "authorized an appropriation to be appropriated in like manner as other expenses of the District of Columbia."

The bill is understood to have the support of Representative Gibson, of Vermont, chairman of a District subcommittee, which is investigating general conditions in the District, preliminary to preparing remedial legislation to correct existing defects.

Declaration that the police court should have more space than is available in the present court building at Sixth and D streets northwest was made by the District committee Monday, following a tour of inspection of the court building. The committee includes Representatives Blanton, of Texas, and Bowman, of West Virginia.

Action on his measure will be sought as quickly as possible by Representative Zihlman, and it is hoped to include an appropriation for the building in the second deficiency bill to be passed later this session. The District commissioners are expected immediately to prepare plans for the building and estimates of its cost.

POLICE STOP TULSA BOOSTERS' PARADE

Visitors Are Entertained at Luncheon and Welcomed by Coolidge; Go to Baltimore.

Zealous policemen broke up a parade of boosters from Tulsa, Okla., yesterday morning and spoiled what otherwise was a perfect day for the visitors. The booster party, composed of 125 business men from Tulsa, paraded from the station to the Willard hotel on their arrival at 8 o'clock. For this they had a permit. An hour or so later they started another parade. The police broke this up, because, they said, the permit had expired.

The Washington Chamber of Commerce was host to the Oklahoma visitors. The program arranged for them included a sightseeing trip, breakfast and luncheon and a reception by President Coolidge. Engineer Commissioner J. Franklin Bell welcomed them at a luncheon in the City club. Other speakers were Senator John W. Harrel, of Oklahoma; A. E. Seymour, secretary of the Washington Chamber of Commerce; former Senator Thomas P. Gore, of Oklahoma; Col. Robert N. Harper and Martin A. Leese, of the local Chamber of Commerce.

Gas Tax Yields $78,169.48.

The gasoline tax for the District yielded $78,169.48 for the March treasury, according to a report submitted to Commissioner Cuno H. Rudolph yesterday, by Tax Assessor William P. Richards. This represents an increase of almost $11,000 over the tax yield for March, 1925.

AWARDS FOR DRILL GIVEN GEORGETOWN CADETS OF R.O.T.C.

Company Competition at Annual Field Day Exercises
Won by Company A.

ANTHONY B. BRENNAN
GETS INDIVIDUAL PRIZE

Capt. R. H. Brown Given Army
Saber as Most Capable Commander.

Cadets of the Georgetown university R. O. T. C. unit vied for individual and company awards at the annual field day exercises staged on the Hilltop parade ground yesterday afternoon before President Charles W. Lyons, S. J., and a board of army judges.

The competitive drill between the companies of the battalion was won by Company A under command of Cadet Capt. Francis W. Bowen, to whom was presented the battalion colors which that company will carry next year. Highest individual honors were awarded to Anthony B. Brennan, cadet lieutenant colonel in command of the Georgetown battalion, as the outstanding figure in the unit during his four years at the college. He received a gold wrist watch.

Lyons Presents Awards.

Awards were made by President Lyons in eight instances, the events being judged by an army board comprising Capt. F. A. Byrne, Capt. Perry L. Baldwin, Capt. W. P. Scopey and Capt. F. E. Linnell. Other army guests on the occasion were Col. John J. Coffey and Lieut. Col. William E. Persons, of the staff of the chief of infantry, who were invited to inspect the unit by Lieut. Col. Augustus F. Danne-miller, U. S. A., professor of military science and tactics at Georgetown.

Following the formal review of the unit, which made an impressive appearance with the military band in the lead, the company competitive drill was held and individual units were put through special tests. One of the outstanding awards was won by J. J. Flanagan, who was declared the best drilled man in the basic course.

As the most capable company commander, Cadet Capt. Rothwell H. Brown, of the District of Columbia, was presented with a United States regulation saber, donated by the military department in appreciation of his year's work.

With the exception of the wrist watch presented Lieut. Col. Brennan, which is awarded annually by Joseph A. McDonough, a former battalion commander of 1922, the prizes were donated by the university and the military department.

Other Prizes.

Other awards were as follows: Medal to the individual high scorer of the rifle team, won by Michael J. McInerney, of the athletic department to the five highest scorers on the rifle team, won by M. J. McInerney, J. J. Madden, D. B. Heer, Frederick M. Hickey and John E. Wise.

Medal to best platoon leader, won by Dorsey B. Heer. Medals to the members of the best drilled platoon awarded to the first platoon of Company D, J. W. O'Leary, leader.

Relatives See Pictures Of Chaplains Unveiled

Twenty relatives of chaplains who lost their lives in the world war witnessed the hanging of pictures of these chaplains in the office of Chief of Chaplains John T. Axline yesterday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock.

The curtain veiling the pictures, was drawn by Arthur H. Marsh, Jr., and Richard Marion Marsh, of this city, sons of the late Chaplain Arthur H. Marsh. Flowers used in the decoration for the occasion were sent by President Coolidge.

Trash-Plant Removal To Virginia Discussed

The proposal to move the trash plant from the Trinidad section in this city to Occoquan, Va., was discussed yesterday at a conference attended by Jesse C. Suter and W. L. Swanton, of the citizens advisory council, and Engineer Commissioner J. Franklin Bell.

They also discussed the 10-year civil improvement plan advocated recently by Mr. Swanton. The council will take up these matters at its next meeting Tuesday night.

Bible Story Contest Will Start Today

The preliminary Bible story telling contest, conducted by the education department of the Y. W. C. A., will be held this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, at the Administration building, 614 E street northwest. Contestants from the various Sunday schools of the District who are more than 15 years old will be placed in the intermediate section, while girls between the ages of 12 and 15 will be in the junior groups.

The judges for the preliminary contest are Mrs. Howard S. Roberts, chairman of the religious education committee; Miss Helen Fay, of the general education committee, and Miss Katherine Bell, advisor of the Semper Fidelis club, at Eastern High school. An award of one week at Camp Kahlert, or the equivalent in an association activity, will be given to the winner in each group. Applications of competitors are being received by Miss Marian R. Miller, director of education.

Rathbone Suggests City Improvements

A desire to assist in matters relating to the District of Columbia was expressed by Representative Henry R. Rathbone, of Illinois, speaking before the Cosmopolitan club in the Lee House yesterday. Representative Rathbone said something should be done to eliminate insanitary alley dwellings.

He stated that he would like to see all the old buildings on Pennsylvania avenue torn down and replaced with modern structures. Ernest De Kaib was introduced as a new member. Boosters' prizes were awarded Edward Minte and Ferdinand Waldman. Donors for the next meeting will be Edward Stephens and Harry Taylor.

Convention Bureau Aided by Realtors

The Washington real estate board, at a meeting of its board of directors yesterday, voted an appropriation of $250 toward the $24,000 budget being raised for the Washington convention bureau for the coming year.

PRESIDENT OF FIDAC HONORED AT DINNER

Anglo-American Good Will Is Keynote of Affair for Col. Crossfield.

Anglo-American good will was the keynote last night at the dinner given to Col. George R. Crossfield by Julius I. Peyser, commander of the District department, American Legion, in the Racquet club.

A warning of war danger in Germany and other European powers was voiced by Col. Crossfield in his address. "While Germany is disarmed materially," he said, "she is not disarmed mentally. Germany has 200,000 men actually under arms today. Half of the number consists of troops and the rest are police."

Col. Crossfield is president of the Federation Internationale des Anciens Combattants. Other speakers were Representative Hamilton Fish, of New York, and Col. James A. Drain, past District commander of the American Legion; Col. H. Nelson Jackson and Frederic William Wile.

ESCAPED CONVICT WOUNDED BY POSSE; 4 ARE RECAPTURED

Two Citizens Hit by Shots in Fight at Leonore, Ill.; Three Fugitives at Large.

MAN-HUNT FOR SLAYERS OF WARDEN KLEIN

Battle Creek Sheriff Takes Ten Men Off Freight in Search for Suspects.

Leonore, Ill., May 6 (By A. P.).—One of the biggest man-hunts in the history of Illinois narrowed tonight to the trails of three convicts whose escape, with four others, from the penitentiary at Joliet, resulted in the death of a deputy warden and various injuries to four others.

Two of the convicts were pulled from underneath the hay in a barn today, on the farm of John Rose, three-fourths of a mile northwest of here. Two others were captured last night after a pistol fight with Leonore citizens.

Having dropped two of their number between Morris and Ottawa in their flight in the automobile of Deputy Warden Peter M. Klein, whom they had slain, five of the escaped prisoners entered the village on foot. They had wrecked their automobile about four miles from here.

Farmer Gives Warning.
Warned of their approach by a farmer, whom they had held up and robbed, the residents of Leonore armed themselves and laid in wait.

They chased the convicts amid a shower of bullets to the outskirts of the village, where they caught two, Gregorio Rizo, badly wounded, was taken to a hospital, and Robert Torrez was lodged in jail. The three others escaped in the darkness. Two members of the posse were wounded, one severely.

The Chicago crime commission today launched a campaign for $500,000 to prosecute an individual investigation of the slaying of McSwiggan and the crime and political situation generally.

wild wooded region along the Vermillion river, found Walter Staleska and Bernardo Roa in the barn. The men showed little fight after their revolver failed to work. Charles Duschowski, the third to slip away in the night, was believed to have hidden on the farm of William Schmidt and posses were dispatched to search for him.

The two who left the automobile, Morris Charles Schrader and James B. Price were believed to have boarded a freight train for Chicago. Hospital attendants said that George Katanach, Leonore business man who was shot in the abdomen and leg in the fight last night would probably recover.

The Will county grand jury at Joliet which adjourned its regular session yesterday, went into special session to investigate the murder of Deputy Warden Klein.

Ten Taken as Suspects.
Battle Creek, Mich., May 6 (By A. P.).—Ten men, some of whom officers believe may be convicts who escaped from the State penitentiary at Stateville, Ill., late yesterday after killing a deputy warden, are being held at police headquarters.

The men were arrested late today during a round-up of suspicious characters in the Michigan Central Railroad yards. Officers here were notified by Kalamazoo authorities that a number of suspicious looking men were aboard a freight train. Armed with sawed-off shot guns and revolvers, the officers met the train.

$20 for twelve prints such as these is indeed reasonable.

VOLUNTEER LABOR IS ENCOURAGING BALDWIN

LINER PASSENGERS

SOUTHAMPTON READY TO RECEIVE LEVIATHAN

Many Who Planned Sailings
Are Stranded in Interior of England.

Plymouth, Eng., May 6 (By A. P.).—The strike of dockers and rail men has thoroughly disorganized work here in connection with the mail boats and passenger liners. The liner Morea, from China and Japan, is detained here with more than 300 passengers aboard. Some of the passengers ventured ashore, handled their own baggage and hired automobiles to proceed inland. Passengers for western England who reached Southampton on the Mauretania were brought here by charabancs for further distribution, and similar means were employed to take passengers to Southampton for New York liners.

The steamer Meranmen, with grain, is detained in the sound. The mail boat City of Simla, due with 250 passengers from Bombay, has been ordered by wireless to proceed to London.

Leviathan to Be Docked.
Southampton, England, May 6 (By A. P.).—The liner Leviathan is scheduled to reach Cherbourg, France, at 3 o'clock tomorrow morning and should arrive in Southampton in the late afternoon. All arrangements have been made to dock her here. Those passengers having private motor cars awaiting them will immediately disembark. The others probably will be kept on board until Saturday morning when buses will be available to transport them to London.

All ships are becoming floating hotels in the emergency. Many passengers who expected to disembark at Southampton on the Leviathan will leave the ship at Cherbourg, and others have booked for the return trip, which begins next Tuesday.

Robert Woods Bliss to Sail.
Robert Woods Bliss, Minister to Sweden, and Mrs. Bliss, Walter Lyman Brown and Prof. and Mrs. Max Farrand, of New York, are among the 125 first-class passengers slated to sail on the Leviathan. The office staff of the United States lines is helping to arrange for their departure.

Most of the passengers who plan to sail on the Leviathan will go to France before the strike upset the railways, but others are stranded in various parts of England and are frantically endeavoring to reach London, where the company can make arrangements to get them and their luggage to Southampton.

London, May 6 (By A. P.).—The Trades Union Congress says it has received reports that the steamship companies are considering importing American and South African negroes for service as stevedores on British ports.

New York, May 6 (By A. P.).—Cabled reports to the Cunard Line offices here from England today said no difficulty was experienced in discharging freight and passengers from the liners Mauretania and Scythia and that no difficulty was anticipated for passengers desiring to return on the ships. Crews for the return voyage to the United States were signed without trouble.

Soviet Sends Money
To British Workers

Moscow, May 6 (By A. P.).—The executive committee of the Soviet labor confederation passed a resolution today to appeal to all union members and workers in Soviet institutions to contribute one-quarter of one day's wages to the striking British workers. In this manner 3,500,000 rubles ($1,750,000) will be raised. There already has been sent to the general English trade council 250,000 rubles.

The Soviet transport workers' union has adopted a resolution not to handle any freight destined for England.

Emergency Powers
Passed at Belfast

Belfast, May 6 (By A. P.).—Parliament has passed the emergency power bill through all its stages and obtained the royal assent to it. The measure was designed to protect the public against greed and profiteering in coal and other necessities.

The association of engineers is preparing a list of members who will volunteer for maintenance of the public services should the general strike spread to Ulster. Coal is being rationed.

Sending Ruhr Coal
To England Opposed

Essen, Germany, May 6 (By A. P.).—The miners of all factions, including the Christian trade unions, have issued a joint appeal to the Ruhr valley miners to prevent the shipment of fuel to England and to refuse to work overtime.

"A victory by the English operators would have catastrophic consequences for the development of the world's coal market, as well as for the miners of all countries," the appeal declares.

Britain, Says Prof. Fisher, Paying Price of Deflation

Economist Shows That Wages in England Are Only a Third Above Prewar Level, While Living Cost Is Up 72 Per Cent.

By IRVING FISHER,
Professor of Economics, Yale University.

New Haven, May 6.—As everybody knows, it was not the murder at Serajevo that caused the great war. So we must look beneath the alleged causes of the general strike in England to its more powerful and subtle factors. Of these, doubtless several may be described as fundamental. Some causes, like the general impoverishment brought on by the war, in which British labor shared, can not be helped; others can be.

Labor's policy of shirking and sabotage contributed to the lowering of wages. Owner absenteeism and consequent sticking to primitive nonproductive methods in the face of superior mining in competitive countries aided in depressing profits and wages. Also, subsidies found in oil fuel and cheaper waterpower on the continent diminished the market in British coal. All these things, which make coal mining precarious, produced a bad psychology in the workers which the Russian bolshevik propaganda could mold to their liking.

But bolshevism would have no chance with Englishmen were it not for more powerful antecedent grievances that concerned the livelihood and well-being of British labor. A horse may kick its stall to pieces or throw its rider and run away while the rasper burs that drives it frantic remains concealed under the saddle. Giving due weight, therefore, to other prominent causes of the British industrial impasse, I would call attention to the behavior of the price level.

Five years ago in the United States and last year in Denmark, Norway and Czechoslovakia, deflation acted in all cases to put down wages and create a fearful condition of unemployment. Two deflations in England, the one in 1920 and the other incidental to the resumption of the gold standard in 1925, have done for that nation what damage was left to do after the postwar inflation.

Premier Baldwin, who exclaims at the "very human but very stubborn" bodies of employers and employed also precipitated the strike. He likens the impact of those bodies to that of an irresistible force meeting an impenetrable obstacle. But the double deflation of British industry had brought down prices so that wages of miners equivalent to $11 to $18 a week had to be still further depressed. The second deflation reduced a decline in the wholesale price index of the board of trade from 171 in January, 1925, to 149 in February of this year.

It was the situation that was inexorable, not primarily its human victims on either side of the struggle. The famine prices had checked internal trade. It had curtailed foreign trading. It had shut down blast furnaces, collapsed the ship building and carrying trade, slackened and slumped the minor as well as major industries. For these, among other reasons, trade balances had declined from an excess of exports of $252,000,000 in 1920, to an excess of imports of $274,000,000 in 1925. In such conditions British wages, nominally one-third higher than before the war, would of course be offset by a still higher cost of living—72 per cent above the prewar level.

This last figure recorded by the ministry of labor on March 1, 1926, if applied to wages as it was to represent the cost of maintaining unchanged the prewar standard of working class families, without respect to whether that in itself was adequate. But with wages only 30 per cent above prewar levels and the cost of living 72 per cent above, the "real" wages were smaller. They measure the impoverishment of British labor from all causes, including the war. Yet this is not all. The price level though higher than prewar is much below that of 1920. The recent rapid fall, deflating prices, inevitably tended to deflate wages also. It is mainly this cruel but impersonal process which British labor resists, bringing on the greatest catastrophe since the war.

Deflation—appreciation of the pound sterling! Had that been avoided the catastrophe might never have occurred. But no work is so dark that hope may not be reflected from a true understanding. Now that, whether for weal or woe, the gold standard has been painfully resumed, it affords the British bankers a fair basis for stabilizing the price level and for lending to Europe and the Dominions overseas. The Bank of England has during the last year been doing exactly what our Federal reserve banks have been doing for three or four years past, namely, keeping the price level fairly even by maintaining stable deposits at the expense of holding gold idle and ignoring reserve ratios.

Largely in consequence of this enlightened policy during the weeks preceding the general strike unemployment had ceased to increase—has actually decreased. British government expenditures were being reduced, savings bank returns were tending upward. From the United States the British had increased their imports of raw materials for manufacture. Britain's world control of rubber, copra, cocoa and other raw materials and foodstuffs is significant of the as yet undeveloped riches of her colonies. The depression in British iron and steel has "touched bottom" and the British railways have begun a program of large extensions and improvements. Furthermore, rivalry with continental industries that depend on long hours, low wages and devalued currencies has been improved by a policy of higher wages and superior organization, patterning after the United States. Finally, Great Britain has guided the councils that led to the Locarno pact with its promise of amity and world-wide trade revival. Is it too much to expect of a nation and government displaying such reserves of wealth and leadership that its statecraft will find some solution of this impasse which at bottom is largely financial and already parcel of a departing era?

Sidelights On British Shutdown

The British general strike has interfered with rapid transmission of Paris fashion plates, which are sent to the United States by wireless. Plates of the newest creations are rushed across the English channel by airplane to the Croydon aerodrome, then whisked in automobiles driven by strike-breakers to the radio sending room, only to meet delay in transmission because of the flood of strike pictures being sent across the Atlantic by various news agencies.

London's licensed victuallers are considering the advisability of voluntarily closing their public houses, the general rush home after working hours having caused these establishments in central London and the west end to be deserted in the evenings.

The Daily Mail announces that it has sold 500,000 copies of today's issue, including 250,000 printed in France and brought to London by airplane and steamer. Ten copies were delivered at Buckingham palace for the king and queen and ten to St. James palace for the Prince of Wales.

Everybody from King George to his humblest subject is busier than before the strike. Transportation is so disorganized that strikers on their way to meetings and workers on their way to work put in most of their time walking or wriggling through the motor traffic jams.

Society women, under the leadership of Mrs. Stanley Baldwin, wife of the prime minister, have organized a motor transport corps which is affording transportation for working women in the London area. Limousines no longer are available for tea dainties, bridge parties and theater parties, as their owners have been largely drafted into the volunteer work.

Lady Cynthia Moseley, who is a strong laborite, the Countess of Warwick, and other fashionable women in the labor camp, are just as busy assisting the trades unions as their friends are in aiding the government.

Nearly 1,000,000 of unemployed who were eking out an existence on the dole before the strike began, apparently, have become busier than the 2,000,000 or 3,000,000 union workers now on strike. Picketing and searching for news are the chief occupation of former workers in the industrial centers.

Food prices are rising. City shops throughout England have little business and the banks and offices are largely deserted, but the smaller shops in the residential sections are having a heavy run of business from women who are beginning to hoard food.

The theaters have small crowds in the larger cities, but the moving picture houses are running up to normal. There is a better attendance at the schools as the volunteer buses increase in number, and the public is becoming accustomed to strike conditions.

PARIS FOOD CHEAPER
AS EXPORTS DECLINE

50 Per Cent Drop in Fresh Vegetables; Sea Traffic to England Stops.

Paris, May 6 (By A. P.).—The British strike has brought benefit to the French consuming public in the form of an unprecedented fall in prices of early spring foodstuffs because of cessation of exportation to England.

There already has been a drop of 50 per cent in the prices of fresh vegetables and fruits in south France. Cherries fell from 350 to 150 francs per hundred weight in the Montpellier region today. The famous new potatoes of St. Briec are in danger of being left in the ground as unprofitable if the strike continues.

Exporters face heavy losses. British vessels are not even taking aboard cargoes already contracted for. The cabinet has directed the minister of agriculture to arrange with the railroads for the return of perishable foodstuffs which are rotting on sidings in channel ports awaiting transportation to England. All sea traffic from Belgium to England has been suspended.

Mexicans May Halt Exports to England

Mexico City, May 6 (By A. P.).—It is reported that the Regional Confederation of Labor is taking steps to curtail or prevent shipments of Mexican foodstuffs, petroleum and other vital products to England. The confederation also is considering financial assistance to the British strikers.

Woman Laborite Seated in Commons

London, May 6 (By A. P.).—Another woman member appeared in the house of commons this afternoon, when Susan Lawrence, noted labor women's worker, took her seat amid labor cheers. They now are four women in the house of commons, the others being Lady Astor, the Duchess of Athol and Mrs. Hilton Phillips.

The conservatives retained the parliamentary seat for the Buckrose division of Yorkshire in the bye election occasioned by the resignation of Vice Admiral Sir Guy Gaunt. Maj. A. N. Brathwaite was elected, receiving 12,089 votes to 10,537 for Sir Harry Verney, liberal, and 2,191 for H. C. Laycock, labor.

U. S. Textile Industry Expected to Be Aided

Boston, May 6 (By A. P.).—The "artificial tariff" brought about by a suspension of British shipping due to the general strike will benefit the textile industry of New England wool textile manufacturers agreed today. The situation that existed during the war when imports from Europe were suspended was pointed to in proof of the contention.

It was agreed that in the natural course of events it would result in stimulating activity in the mills of this country. It was pointed out that imports of goods were heavy during March and April and that a cessation of British shipping activity would bring to an end the influx of seasonable goods to be finished here.

Nationalization Bill For Utilities Offered

Nationalization of railroad, telegraph, telephone and express properties engaged in interstate commerce was proposed in a bill introduced yesterday by Representative Berger (Socialist), Wisconsin.

In an accompanying statement Mr. Berger said "the struggle which is now taking place in England, possessing all the characteristics of a civil war, is one of the results to which private ownership of public utilities must eventually lead."

SAKLATVALA TO PRISON FOR SEDITIOUS SPEECH

Communist M. P. Gets Two Months When He Refuses Peace Bond.

NOT PERSONAL, HE SAYS

London, May 6 (By A. P.).—Shapurji Saklatvala, the lone communist member of parliament, was sentenced to two months' imprisonment today for making a seditious speech. He was given the alternative of providing sureties to keep the peace, but chose the prison sentence.

Saklatvala, who appeared in connection with a charge arising from an alleged seditious speech made in Hyde park on Labor day, conducted his own defense.

He admitted the fairness and accuracy of the police report of his speech. He told the magistrate he submitted cheerfully to the position in which he stood, as it was intended for the public good and he did not look upon it as personal prosecution.

Regarding the present propaganda and the political outlook, he considered it no more right that he be bound over to keep the peace than that Premier Baldwin should be brought against a section of the community.

The communist declared he never intended to incite disorder or encourage breach of the peace. The magistrate ordered him to find two sureties of £250 each and to keep the peace for a year. Saklatvala refused, whereupon the magistrate ordered him to jail for two months.

SCHOOLGIRLS HELD IN TEXTILE DISORDER

One 9, Other 13, Said to Have Thrown Tin Cans at Woman Worker.

Passaic, N. J., May 6 (By A. P.).—Two grammar school girls were arrested today in Passaic's textile strike. They were charged with interfering with a worker at Gera Mills, and Benjamin Lovansky, aged 34, was held as a disorderly person for protesting their arrest.

The girls, Agnes Levensky, 9, and Mary Wolnik, 13, were held on complaint of Helen Schegel, who charged that as she was going home from work the girls threw tin cans at her. She was cut on the head. Mrs. Louise Wesley, a worker at Botany Mills, took refuge in a house near the mill when she was greeted with a shower of missiles and cries of "scab" from children as she was going home. The woman refused to leave the house until police arrived.

State Senator Alexander Simpson said he would appear before Judge Delaney at Paterson at a time convenient for the judge to move the dismissal of three indictments against Albert Welsford, strike organizer, charging him with hostility to the government.

Walkout Is Likely In New South Wales

Sydney, New South Wales, May 6 (By A. P.).—The colliery engine drivers who threatened to strike during the latter part of April if their demands for higher wages were not granted, are expected to cease work Saturday when their two weeks' notice expires. The mines probably will close down then. The prospects of a settlement appear very small.

In response to a request from the secretary of the second international at Amsterdam, the Sydney trades union council has decided to request the seamen's union and the miners' federation not to allow extra bunkering on British ships, and not to permit export cargoes to be placed in foreign vessels bound for England from New South Wales. The council also resolved to assist the British miners.

Bullard Supports Baldwin's Policy

New York, May 6 (By A. P.).—Maj. Gen. Robert L. Bullard, U. S. A., retired, president of the National Security league, has sent a cablegram to Premier Baldwin, saying: "All those who believe in democratic constitutional government and are opposed to the destructive policy of revolutionary communism in its attack on present social order, are with you in your fight."

Gen. Bullard expressed his belief that the common sense of the American people would make such a strike impossible here, and said he had absolute confidence in American labor.

Wales Hears Appeal FOR END OF ROYALTY

London, May 6 (By A. P.).—The Prince of Wales and his brother, the Duke of York, who is next in line for the British throne, were present in the house of commons today when George Buchanan, a laborite member, declared that he was a republican and would like to see the British throne abolished tomorrow.

Buchanan was participating in debate, and his remarks were made in good nature, causing no flurry, but adding spice to the proceedings for the prince and his brother, who were seated in the peers' gallery.

Buchanan spoke of his republican belief in the course of debate on a measure which would permit the arrest of persons of "known character," who might be found in the vicinity of some public service if it appeared that they might be present to do some injury.

Buchanan wanted to know what "known character" meant. He cited himself as a republican in favor of the abolishment of the throne and wanted to know whether, if he were found in a neighborhood of the king's palace, he would be regarded as a known bad character as a result.

He also wanted to know if Lady Astor would come under the same classification if she were found in the neighborhood of a brewery, or Lloyd George, with his views on land, were found near a landlord, or Home Secretary J. H. Hicks near a communist meeting.

His speech, which caused much laughter, was the only light note in a tense debate on the emergency regulations.

Buying of Texas Wool For Britain Ceases

San Angelo, Tex., May 6 (By A. P.).—Contracting of Texas spring wool has virtually ceased here as a result of the British strike. More than a dozen wool buyers with headquarters in San Angelo, known as the leading inland wool market, yesterday discontinued all offers.

As the foreign market is regarded as the barometer of United States wool prices, the buyers understood their companies will await stabilization of quotations abroad before making further contracts. With a record crop of long spring Texas wool predicted, estimated as high as 25,000,000 pounds, buyers report that not more than 2,500,000 had been contracted. Shearing is well under way.

OPPOSITE VIEWS GIVEN ON SITUATION IN LONDON

STRIKERS THREATEN TO STOP TRANSPORT OF FOOD SUPPLIES

Colvin, London Conservative Editor, Says Union Plan of Control Failed.

COOPERATIVES STAND ON GOVERNMENT SIDE

Sailors Show No Inclination to Stop Work, While Docks Gain Men.

By IAN COLVIN, Chief Editorial Writer, The Morning Post, London (Conservative).

London, May 6.—What an American writer called a revolt against civilization proceeds, but not altogether according to plan. The leaders had calculated on controlling food supplies and the news service in their own interest. As to food, the simple belief was that the government, in an extremity would accept the strikers' offer to cooperate in the distribution. The strikers would thus control the situation.

The refusal of the government to accept this naive offer has thrown the strikers' calculations out of gear and they are now threatening to picket the food transport and stop the food trains. These fears do not impress the authorities, who are now rapidly taking over the great work of feeding the nation.

How to Strikers.

Particularly disappointing to the strikers is the evidence that the enormous organization of workers represented by the cooperative wholesale and retail movement has thrown its weight to the side of the government. "Emperor" Cook, leader of the miners, had boasted that cooperative organization would become the commissariat of his revolutionary forces.

As this boast was promptly contradicted by the Cooperative Wholesale society, the strikers in their resentment are actually trying to picket this essentially workers' organization.

This demonstrates the important truth that the cooperative movement, which is very strong in the industrial North, is essentially conservative in the nonpolitical sense of the word.

It is important also that, whereas no place in this island is more than 50 miles from the sea, sailors show no inclination to join the strike. Crews are signing on as usual. At Liverpool and Southampton ocean sailings are maintained. The Maudslayi got away yesterday. The Mauretania will sail today. In these two great ports the vital services are being maintained and the number of dock hands signing on is increasing daily, although there is little doing at present in the London docks.

News Reaches People.

So far as the news services are concerned, the strikers' miscalculations were hardly less important. They thought that their organ would monopolize the field, whereas the government organ has already reached a daily circulation of over a half million. As for public opinion, the result by the bye-election in the Buckrose division in Yorkshire is significant. True, this constituency is traditionally liberal, but the contemptible socialist vote of 2,000 suggests a widespread action against the strikers. We may expect to see violence increase, as the extremists still endeavor to influence class feeling. Nevertheless, the government is more confident of the general result.

Tear Gas Put in Cell; Girl's Death Follows

Seranton, Pa., May 6 (By A. P.).—Investigation has been started to determine whether tear gas thrown into a cell at the county jail caused the death of Julia Sanko, 16, who was serving a sentence for robbery. The girl died in the State hospital Tuesday. Tear gas had been thrown into her cell, two members of the prison board said they learned, when the girl became unruly.

Mellon Portrait Given New York Chamber

New York, May 6 (By A. P.).—A portrait of Andrew W. Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury, was presented today to the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York by its members at the annual meeting. It was given as a token of appreciation from this generation of New Yorkers, and as an inspiration to future generations of business men to render "unselfish public service."

The portrait, painted by Philip de Laszlo, was placed in a gallery containing portraits of Alexander Hamilton, John Sherman and Albert Gallatin, the only other Secretaries of the Treasury so honored.

Named on Commission.

Maj. Gen. Charles F. Humphrey, retired, U. S. A.; Lieut. Col. Francis A. Pope, corps of engineers, district engineer of Norfolk, Va., and Robert Alfred O'Brien have been named by Secretary of War Davis as members of the commission for the inspection of the battlefields and surrender grounds of the old Appomattox Courthouse, Va. The commission was authorized by Congress last February.

STRIKERS REJECT ULTIMATUM; PREPARED TO FIGHT, THEY SAY

almost total suppression of newspapers by the strike acts detrimentally not only to the government and capitalist cause, which it was intended to embarrass, but also to the strikers themselves. The appearance of this forum of public discussion naturally keeps the general public in more or less ignorance of the exact state of affairs in the country and leaves the way open for all sorts of alarming rumors to spread.

Organs of Little Help.

Although the government and the labor side is each publishing its own paper, the difficulties of distribution as well as of production, are so great that the papers reach only a small portion of the populace.

The strikers believe that the suppression of the press acts in their favor, because in a general way a large majority of the newspapers—and this applies especially to London—represent the capitalist cause.

On the other hand, the voice of peace is equally barred, and this is to the disadvantage of the strikers. During the final stage of the negotiations that failed and up to the last moment before the actual break occurred letters were appearing in the public press, some from great dignitaries of the church, appealing with considerable sympathy for the miners' cause and for just and impartial consideration of the whole question. Now such appeals can no longer be voiced.

Mine Owners Might Help.

What is necessary before any negotiations can be renewed is to get the situation back to where it was before the final rupture came Monday night, when, hot foot on the stoppage of the Daily Mail's printing press, the government launched its ultimatum demanding unconditional withdrawal of the notices for a general strike. The council of the trade union's congress daily repeats that such withdrawal is impossible.

As things stand, it would appear that only some means of having the mine owners withdraw their lockout notices would serve to initiate new negotiations because that would save the face of the trades union leaders and enable them to withdraw the general strike notices. A statement issued by the council of the unions today says:

"The council is ready at any moment to resume negotiations, but gives an unqualified 'no' to the premier's request for unconditional withdrawal of the notices. The government was responsible for breaking off the negotiations and any further discussions can only be undertaken in a free and unfettered atmosphere."

Many Efforts at Peace.

Efforts to bring about peace are still earnestly being made in many quarters. For example, the Baptist union assembly at Leeds has sent communications to the archbishop of Canterbury and representatives of other churches as well as to Premier Baldwin and the Trades Union congress, urging a strike settlement. But these lost much effectiveness by the lack of press publicity.

Something may come from the deliberations of the parliamentary labor party, but this source is not hopeful and it is hard to see from what quarters can arise any successful intervention.

The government's exceptional policy of allowing the press to report on the movement of food trains and processions and the debate in the house of commons tonight clearly left the labor members with the idea that this course would be adopted.

King Keeps in Close Touch.

The king and queen are spending much of their time in Buckingham palace keeping in close touch with the situation. Today was "cessation day" but under the exceptional circumstance there were no public celebrations of the anniversary. An abundance of voluntary labor, which is being slowly but surely organized by the government is greatly relieving the worst aspects of the stoppage; food is plentiful and transport is improving daily, not only in London but throughout the country.

London's underground railways and tubes are coping with fairly frequent service. More trains are in service on the main lines, and those who are engaged at their employment are going back and forth with less inconvenience than on the first day of the strike.

RIFFS REJECT PEACE; WAR WILL BE RESUMED

Negotiations Between French, Spanish and Rebels End in Complete Failure.

CONFERENCE BREAKS UP

Oudjda, French Morocco, May 6 (By A. P.).—The peace negotiations between France, Spain and the Rifian tribesmen have ended in complete failure. The Rifians categorically declined to make any concessions and the two great European powers, feeling that they have given Abd-el-Krim sufficient opportunity to make peace, now will wage war upon him.

Si Mohammed Azerkane and Hadou Ben Hannon arrived here this morning from their trip to Abd-el-Krim's headquarters with the final Franco-Spanish terms.

They entered the conference room at noon and presented a memorandum in which they stated they were unable to change their attitude. They refused to surrender the prisoners held in the Rif or to permit the advance of the Franco-Spanish troops. Instead they presented counter proposals.

These were immediately vetoed by the French and Spanish delegations. That the Rifian delegates had come to the conference room with the knowledge that their reply would force a breakdown, was shown by the fact that they instructed their servants to pack up their few belongings and be ready for departure immediately after session.

Gen. Simon, head of the French delegation and chairman of the conference, told them the negotiations had lasted long enough. They were not there to submit counter proposals, but to accept or reject the terms presented to them on May 1. "Then it is war," he said. "You have forced it upon us."

The Rifian delegates left Oudjda at 4 o'clock this afternoon in a fleet of automobiles, accompanied by a French interpreter. They will go to Nemours, where they will embark immediately on a destroyer to return home. Their departure was quiet, and was not seen by the local population.

TOOK SQUIBB LIQUOR, 3 NEGROES CONFESS

Indianapolis, May 6 (By A. P.).—Three negro employees of the Indianapolis Federal building pleaded guilty to having violated the national prohibition law when arrested here today in connection with the disappearance of a portion of the Squibb liquor which had been under padlock.

Judge Robert Baltzell remanded the men to jail without bail to give them "a chance to think it over," declaring it to be his opinion that "some one else is implicated with you in this."

The men are Joseph Shores, watchman at the Federal building; Lander Dearson, janitor, and William H. Marshall, a fireman. "It is my opinion some one else is implicated in this," Judge Baltzell said. "You are not helping yourselves or your families by shielding any one else. This is one of the most scandalous things that has happened in Indiana."

ITALY SOON WILL HAVE FINEST PURSUIT PLANES

Construction of 600 Aeos in Year to Include 250 Swift Machines.

182 AIR SQUADS PLANNED

(Special Cable Dispatch.) Rome, Italy, May 6.—Italy will have the finest pursuit airplanes in the world when the construction program, foreseen in the new Italian law, is fulfilled, declares Gen. Bonanni, undersecretary of state for aviation in the Giornale D'Italia, today.

In the coming year 600 airplanes, of which 250 will be of the all-metal type, will be constructed. The pursuit planes, of which are being concentrated on, will be characterized by their extraordinary speed, far above anything existing at present, combined with remarkable maneuvering qualities.

In order thoroughly to familiarize officers and troops with the construction of the new craft, army contingents will be assigned to duty in the factories, while the workers will replace them in the aviation fields.

When the present program has been completed, Italy will have 182 air squadrons, of which 6 will be in the colonial service. In service today are 91, including 6 in the colonial service. Several of these squadrons still are equipped with obsolete air craft, but this year's program will go a long way toward making Italy the most up-to-date power in the world in the air.

Embassy Secretary At Paris Marries

Paris, May 6.—G. Harlan Miller, son of J. E. Miller, of Wyncote, Pa., and second secretary of the American embassy at Paris, today married Mrs. Harry Payne Bingham, of New York and Arlington, Va., who is prominent in Paris circles as a sculptress and poetess. The bride was divorced a fortnight ago. Ambassador Myron T. Herrick was best man and Mrs. Richard Washburn Child was witness.

CONFISCATION BILL FAILS IN REICHSTAG

Berlin, May 6 (By A. P.).—On second reading the reichstag today rejected the bill for holding a plebiscite on the proposal to confiscate former rulers' properties without indemnification. The vote was 236 to 142.

The socialists and communists voted in favor of the bill, but all members of other parties voted against it.

Although the bill was defeated, the question nevertheless must be given to a plebiscite, which President Von Hindenburg must call in accordance with the German constitution.

A plebiscite was demanded by 12,500,000 voters when the matter was placed before them last March. The plebiscite will give the people an opportunity to decide whether the former rulers' properties shall be confiscated without indemnity, as demanded by the initiators of the movement, or the government shall negotiate its own settlement with the former kaiser and other royalty.

PRODUCTION CEASED THROUGHOUT BRITAIN, WRITES LABOR EDITOR

Only Nonproductive Workers Going to Their Tasks in London, Says Fyfe.

STRIKERS ANIMATED BY RELIGIOUS FERVOR

Passive Resistance Made Strongest Weapon in Economic War.

By HAMILTON FYFE, Editor of London Herald, Labor's Official Newspaper.

London, May 6.—At the Trade Union congress headquarters the latest reports show that the hold-up of transport and many branches of industry is complete. Despite the hopeful announcements broadcast yesterday by the government, the railways are showing hardly any signs of life. A few passenger trains run at uncertain intervals, but there is no traffic whatever except the movement of food trains, and these are not interfered with. It has been made slightly easier for London workers to get to the office in the morning and home in the evening, as all sorts of improvised service have come into being.

Rely on Passivity.

But these workers are all non-productive. In the great producing industries there is nothing doing. The difficulty has been not to persuade men and women to stop work in the trades scheduled for stoppage, but to prevent others who are not yet ordered out from joining in without authorization. This enthusiasm, however, does not lead to foolish violence. Everywhere reports indicate avoidance of disorders. The strikers are determined to show passive resistance with folded arms, the most powerful weapon ever employed in industrial warfare.

The religious nature of the feeling which animates the large masses of the strikers is proved by the hymn singing at meetings and, in some cases, the special services at better hearing today for assault with intent to rob. They were caught after attempting to hold up a filling station last night. Both confessed, one with the explanation: "A fellow must have money."

Deny Fomenting Trouble.

A strong, dignified protest is made by the general council of the Trades Union congress against the provocative address broadcast yesterday by the home secretary. The accusation against labor of fomenting disorder has been indignantly repudiated. The council declares that such unfounded charges are likely to cause trouble. They urge daily, through the British Worker, that there is to be no violence and no disturbances under any circumstances.

The effect of the revelations made in the house of commons that the cabinet broke off negotiations with labor and delivered its ultimatum, in the belief that the strike of the Daily Mail printers meant a general strike, are most favorable to labor. Premier Baldwin's reputation is still lower after this astonishing disclosure.

Italians Unaffected By English Situation

Rome, May 6 (By A. P.).—The fascist government is watching the British general strike with unusual interest because it presents an opportunity to study the important problem of the relations between labor unions and the state, a problem that Italy now is attempting to solve. A high government official today told a correspondent of the Associated Press.

"The British strike has not had the slightest economic, political or labor repercussions in Italy," he said. "We have plenty of coal and sources of supply abroad outside of Great Britain. Our workers are entirely unaffected by the strike, and the government is maintaining rigid order and discipline."

MRS. BENNETT GETS DIVORCE AND LICENSE

Former Follies Girl to Be Bride of New Yorker in Fifth Marriage.

Chattanooga, Tenn., May 6 (By A. P.).—Evelyn Parries Bennett, former Follies beauty, was divorced from Raymond Bennett, in circuit court here early this afternoon, 30 minutes later had secured a license to marry James M. Heath, 28, of New York.

The license was issued to Mrs. Bennett personally. She signed the required bond with both her name and Heath's.

Two's decrees marked the culmination of the fourth divorce petition by Mrs. Bennett, the first, filed here two years ago, later being dismissed upon reconciliation. Several months ago she filed a second suit here, but abandoned it before trial. She filed a third at Tampa, Fla., and was granted a divorce, but returned to Chattanooga within a week and remarried Bennett. The fourth suit was filed about 30 days ago.

Marriage to Heath will be the Follies girl's fifth wedding ceremony. Her first venture was with a man named James, and her second with William E. Gill, both of New York. Little is known of Heath here.

DILLMAN, ONCE ACTOR, TO WED MRS. DODGE

Detroit, May 6 (By A. P.).—Mrs. Horace E. Dodge, widow of the automobile manufacturer, will be married here Saturday, to Hugh Dillman, former actor, of New York city and Palm Beach, friends were announced today.

The ceremony will be held at the home of Mrs. Dodge's only son, Horace E. Dodge, at Grosse Pointe, a suburb.

The guests will be limited to Mrs. Dodge's son, her old-time playmate and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Cromwell, of New York city, and a few intimate friends and relatives.

Dr. Samuel Forrer, pastor of the Jefferson Avenue Presbyterian church of Detroit, of which Mrs. Dodge is a member, will perform the ceremony.

Japanese Support Strikers.

Tokyo, May 6 (By A. P.).—The Japanese Federation of Labor today pledged its moral and financial support to the British strikers and cabled its resolutions to England. A special committee was appointed to solicit funds.

strikers, all the vital points are heavily protected.

The ports especially come in for attention. Radio warships are swinging quietly at anchor at Liverpool and three at Glasgow. Some of the other ports, such as Portsmouth and Plymouth, always have warships in the harbor in normal times.

Middlesbrough, England, May 6 (By A. P.).—The police tonight had to use their clubs against a mob, which stoned and tried to hold up a passenger train and refused to disperse. The stationmaster and a police sergeant were badly injured.

After much disturbance the mayor and municipal councilors addressed the crowd which was persuaded finally to disperse.

A crowd at the Elephant and Castle, a well-known tavern and traffic center in southeast London, today set fire to a motorbus run by volunteers. Mounted police dispersed the attackers.

Disorders in Scotland.

Edinburgh, Scotland, May 6 (By A. P.).—Many passengers were injured when a crowd attacked a train at Musselburgh near here today. Showers of stones were thrown, shattering the windows.

Disturbances were renewed in and around Edinburgh this evening, the mobs stoning buses and the police charging the mob. Several arrests were made.

The first serious disorder here in connection with the strike occurred last night when a crowd of several thousand clashed with the police. Five policemen and a number of civilians were taken to hospitals.

The mob threw stones and bot-ties. Shop windows were smashed and two shops looted. A police sergeant was slashed with a razor. Several rioters were arrested. Train service from Edinburgh was extended today and a satisfactory tram and bus service was maintained in the city.

Bus Windows Smashed.

Paisley, Scotland, May 6 (By A. P.).—Buses passing through the town of Johnstone today were attacked by gangs which showered them with missiles. Many of the machines had every window smashed.

Glasgow, May 6 (By A. P.).—The east side of the city of Glasgow was the scene of prolonged rioting today in connection with the general strike. Several persons were severely injured and many others were more or less seriously injured. Sixty-six persons were arrested.

The storm center of the strike was the district between the two tramway depots in Ruby street and Paton street. It was reported that a number of volunteers for tramway service were housed in the depots overnight Wednesday, and early this morning a party of miners from the neighboring colliery districts marched into the city to see about it.

On their arrival they stormed the Ruby street depot. The small police guard promptly summoned aid. One hundred constables arrived soon afterward and attacked the miners with their clubs. There were several riot fights in the streets before the district was cleared.

Meanwhile small bands of rioters went into adjoining streets and began looting. This, however, was suppressed, and there was quiet for several hours.

COLLEGE BOYS CAUGHT IN ATTEMPTED HOLDUP

Nebraska University Students Give as Excuse "Fellow Must Have Money."

BOTH HIGH IN CLASSES

Lincoln, Nebr., May 6 (By A. P.).—Two college youths who stand high in their classes, rate well socially and are fraternity "pledges" awaited hearing today for assault with intent to rob. They were caught after attempting to hold up a filling station last night. Both confessed, one with the explanation: "A fellow must have money."

The students are John Darrah, 18, Cody, Wyo., and Frank Allen, 23, Concord, Neb., second semester freshmen at the University of Nebraska.

They appeared at a filling station at closing time and told three attendants to hold up their hands. Instead, one attendant lunged at Allen while another jerked off his mask. Darrah fired once as both fled. Darrah was captured after firing one shot at his pursuers, and he confessed, implicating Allen. Allen was arrested in his room.

Dean Engberg, of the university, declared both boys are considered as among the better students. Darrah was an exceptional student, he said. Allen is married.

ORDERS JURY INQUIRY OF FERTILIZER TRUST

Judge Soper Sets May 17 for Hearing of Charges Made by Senator Harris.

Baltimore, May 6 (By A. P.).—Federal Judge Morris A. Soper today ordered a special session of the Federal grand jury to convene at 10 o'clock today to hear charges against the fertilizer trust.

Investigation was started a year ago by the Department of Justice, which named Baltimore as headquarters of the combine and estimated its resources at $250,000,000.

(By the Associated Press.) Investigation of the alleged fertilizer trust by a Federal grand jury in Baltimore will follow inquiry by the Department of Justice, which acted upon a resolution passed by the Senate more than a year ago. Senator Harris (Democrat), Georgia, offered the resolution, which charged that the fertilizer trust was controlled by a combine of the South was uniform and too high. He charged that manufacturers had combined to keep up the price in violation of the Sherman antitrust law.

LEITER WILL APPEAL INTEREST DECISION

Meantime, Further Evidence in Countess' Action Is Presented.

Chicago, May 6 (By A. P.).—Joseph Leiter will appeal to the supreme court the appellate court decision that $1,000,000 interest paid by him in purchase of the Illinois coal properties from the estate of his father must be held for distribution among Levi Z. Leiter's grandchildren, attorneys for Leiter said today. The decision was one of the several angles related to the suit of the Countess of Suffolk to remove Leiter, her brother, trustee of the $30,000,000 estate to which they are heirs. Leiter sought to have the money made subject to immediate decision.

Two more witnesses who commanded Leiter's holding in a $350,000 water reservoir in the Sheridan district of Wyoming, as a judicious move, were on the stand today as hearing continued in the Countess' suit. Their testimony was introduced to refute assertions of the Countess that there was enough natural water supply for irrigation of the Leiter property.

PUBLIC BUILDING PLAN.

About the same time the Senate was passing the public building bill carrying an appropriation of $50,000,000 for the erection of new department buildings in Washington, the American Institute of Architects, meeting here, was going on record against the Bruce amendment which restricts the construction of all government buildings to sites south of Pennsylvania avenue. Howard W. Peaslee, a local architect, asserted that the Bruce plan would prohibit development of the public building scheme around Lafayette square and would be contrary to the McMillan plan. He further said it would permit the erection of unsightly office buildings in the vicinity of the White House.

Senator Bruce's amendment is in conformity with the L'Enfant plan. It provides that all new buildings shall be so designed as to enhance the general architectural beauty of the Capital as well as provide for practical utility.

Undoubtedly the plan of Senator Bruce, if it is finally approved by the conference committee and adopted by the House, will make impossible the full development of the McMillan plan. But the argument that it will result in the erection of unsightly office buildings in the vicinity of the White House has no force. There are already several office buildings in sight of the White House, and none can be classed as unsightly. Others may be built, but there is no reason why they should be unsightly. The architects themselves should be able to take care of this. The Bruce amendment will make possible the carrying out of the L'Enfant scheme, approved by the first President and by succeeding executives. Much of the land south of Pennsylvania avenue is now owned by the government, and the erection of department buildings there would save a great deal of money, whereas if the new buildings were to be scattered here, there and everywhere, it would be necessary to purchase much ground at an enormous cost. The greatest practical advantage to be gained by grouping the buildings south of Pennsylvania avenue will lie in the convenience to the public and government workers. At the same time it will add greatly to the beauty of that section. It is safe to say that most residents of Washington will indorse the action of the Senate, and it is to be hoped the conference committee will agree and that the House will approve it.

There's nothing else Italy can do for Mussolini, except, possibly, to name him Teddy.

ARMY AND NAVY NURSES.

The House has agreed to a bill providing for the retirement of army and navy nurses. The nurse corps at present is the only component of the army and navy whose members are not entitled to retirement.

Nurses are the only group of women who serve their country in military and naval branches in time of peace and in time of war. The pay of nurses is about 20 per cent less than the pay of nurses in civilian hospitals. The peace strength of the nurse corps in each service at present is approximately 500. During the war the number in the army was 23,000 and in the navy 1,500.

The cost of retirement for the army and navy nurses for the year 1926 will be less than $3,000; the total cost in ten years will be less than $30,597, if all live. Nurses in the army and navy will be eligible to retirement after 25 years of service.

The beginning of all wisdom is the realization that you are a fool; the end of growth, the belief that you are smart.

A SENATORIAL WARNING.

Senator Jones, of Washington, author of the merchant marine act of 1920, told a group of men representing American shipping interests that unless those interests could get together and concentrate their efforts on devising a policy in the next year or the year after, the United States would go right back to where it was when the war broke out.

The hearing on the so-called Pepper ship aid plan was the cause of the comment. Defenders of the Pepper plan explained that the object of the bill was to build up the American merchant marine by reducing the capital cost of ships. Under this bill it is proposed that the government rebate to shipbuilders in fifteen-year 4 per cent bonds, the difference between the cost of building ships in American ship yards and in foreign yards, up to 30 per cent of the total cost. It is explained that such a rebate is necessary to make up the difference in cost, owing to cheaper materials and labor abroad.

American overseas freight bill amounts to about $500,000,000 annually, and most of this is paid to foreign vessels. To surrender ocean transportation to foreign vessels will subject American shippers to exorbitant freight rates.

Great industries have been built up under the principle of a protective tariff. The ocean-carrying trade is the only trade necessarily open to free competition with the whole maritime world. If the principle of government protection were applied to ocean vessels, the American merchant marine might be built up permanently. Protection of American coastwise trade makes it successful; free trade in ocean transportation overwhelms American vessels, which are expensive to build and which carry highly paid crews.

Yet just a little while ago knees were clasped as prayer bones instead of scenery.

ECONOMIC EFFECT OF THE STRIKE.

Fear is expressed, that the strike in Great Britain will be injurious to the trade of the United States with that country. But judging from the effect of the world war upon our trade with Great Britain, American exports are likely to increase and imports decrease.

When the war began in 1914 commodity exports from the United States to Great Britain averaged about $278,897,000 in value. The value increased steadily until in 1917 it was $2,009,000,000; in 1918, $2,278,000,000; and in 1919, $2,287,000,000.

In 1914 American imports from Great Britain averaged about $278,897,000 in value; reaching $305,486,000 in 1916 and declining to $148,614,000 in 1918; then rising again to $309,189,000 in 1919. Thus it will be seen that the immediate effect of the war was an increase of American exports and a decrease in imports from Great Britain.

American exports from Great Britain in the calendar year 1925 were valued at $1,031,875,000—the highest point ever reached in any one year outside the war period. It is not unlikely that the value of our exports will increase if the strike is prolonged.

American imports of commodities from Great Britain in the calendar year 1925 were valued at $412,315,000, much greater than in any year from 1910 to 1920. If precedent is followed, commodity imports from Great Britain are likely to decrease because of the strike. The strike will reduce production, and is likely to increase the demand for commodities made in the United States. Economic forces will probably operate essentially as they operated during the war. Great Britain will buy from us an increasing amount of commodities.

The greatest probable peril is the effect of the strike on Great Britain's payment of installments on her debt to the United States, funded and approved in February, 1923. Under the arrangement agreed to by both the United States and Great Britain, the latter country agreed to pay $161,000,000 in 1923; $160,310,000 in 1924; $160,620,000 in 1925; $160,900,000 in 1926; and $161,400,000 in 1927; increasing each year until $181,125,000 is reached in the sixty-second year.

Great Britain has paid the first three payments as agreed, setting a commendable example to the other debtor countries. What will be the effect of the strike on the payments due in 1926 and 1927? This is a question that doubtless deeply interests the Treasury.

So far as American trade with countries other than Great Britain is concerned, the British strike, if it should become a real deadlock, would prove beneficial. Buyers of British goods would be compelled to buy elsewhere, and America would get a large share of the business. A paralysis of British shipping would temporarily hamper ocean trade, but would also quickly stimulate American shipping; and there is enough non-British shipping to attend to all the business that will be offered.

A country is safe so long as citizens, despite their sometime crookedness, scorn a crooked judge.

INLAND WATERWAYS.

The board of engineers for rivers and harbors reports that the annual dividend to the American people from their investment in inland waterways is approximately $150,000,000.

Compared with Class I railways, the inland waterways, according to the report of the engineers, made a remarkable showing. While the railways in Class I, with 250,000 miles of main tracks, handled in 1925 about 1,280,000,000 tons of revenue freight, the 30,000 miles of inland waterways, including improved sections, carried 200,000,000 tons. With one-eighth of the mileage of the railways, the inland waterways carried one-sixth as much freight.

The ultimate feminine touch doubtless will be a bow of ribbon on the ash tray.

"UNCLE JOE" AT NINETY.

Out in Danville, Ill., "Uncle Joe" Cannon celebrates his ninetieth birthday anniversary today. Reports are that the former Speaker of the House will not depart from his regular routine. In the morning he will go for a walk, stopping now and then to converse with a friend. Then he will go to the Second National Bank, which he and his brother established, after which he will ride out to the country club. In the evening, following dinner, or supper as they call it out that way, "Uncle Joe" will read the evening paper, receive a few friends, and retire as is his custom at 10:30 p. m. The veteran legislator, who served long in Congress than any other man, has not lost his interest in politics or the state. When the President or some other distinguished person in public life talks over the radio, Mr. Cannon listens in.

"Uncle Joe" is a little more feeble than he appeared during his last term in Congress, it is said, but he is still remarkably active. He refuses to admit that he is getting old. He asserts that he is merely "matured."

A remarkable man is "Uncle Joe," a living example of the kind of whom the Rev. Dr. Keigwin, Presbyterian minister of New York, on Sunday last told his parishioners.

"Scientists tell us that we age faster during childhood and that the rate slows down with advancing years," he said. "Keep going and you will never be put on the shelf. It is always dangerous to retire or to settle down. Apparently nature hates idleness as much as it abhors a vacuum. Engines wear out more rapidly when they are running idle. Man is set up to run under a load. If we retire from one activity we must embark upon another or we will surely be put on the shelf. If not in a pine box. The greatest work in the world is usually done by those who have passed the threescore years. Read the history of art, of music, of statecraft and of the world. Who tackled the mountains during the world war? Who welded together the allied forces? A young man of 67."

"Uncle Joe" has been such a man. Today

the sage of Danville may not "alter" his daily routine, notwithstanding the date and occasion, but it is safe to say that he will read with deep interest the scores of congratulatory messages that will pile high on his desk, and his eyes will gleam, perhaps, when he takes up the one from the new "czar" of the House. It will bring back the memory of other days.

The good wishes of all Americans go to "Uncle Joe" on his birthday. His cheerfulness has strengthened many a hard-pressed man and has taught him to set his jaw, smile, and "wade in." May sunny skies forever smile on "Uncle Joe!"

No man is a whole man until he has used all the faculties, appetites and capacities nature gave him for use.

COMPROMISE RETIREMENT.

Passage of a Federal employees' retirement bill increasing the annuities of retired employees to $1,000 seems now assured. President Coolidge has given his indorsement to a compromise measure submitted by the director of the budget, Gen. Lord, and it has been accepted by Representative Lehlbach in the House and by Senator Stanford in the Senate. Inasmuch as there is little opposition to the measure in the Senate, it is expected it will be passed by that body with little debate. The situation is not so favorable, perhaps, in the House, but with the chief executive supporting it the bill should pass.

The bill provides for an increase of the deductions from employees' salaries from 2½ per cent to 3½ per cent. This additional revenue will be sufficient to take care of the increased annuities without causing any drain on the Treasury. From the time of the enactment of the original retirement law, the government has never had to contribute to the fund for retired employees, the money paid into the fund by the clerks having been much more than sufficient to meet the outlay. In fact, many millions remain to the credit of the retirement fund. With the increased contributions by the employees it is probable that the reserve fund will be increased, and that it will be a long time before Congress will be required to appropriate any money.

While the compromise bill is not entirely satisfactory to the employees, it is the best that, in the opinion of the President, can be had at this time, when a Treasury deficit is threatened next year. It is something, at any rate, and there is no reason why the employees should not seek in another Congress to have a more liberal bill enacted that will enable them to leave the public service at an age when they can enjoy a few years of rest and comfort.

Russia now permits the erection of private factories, having at last sacrificed its sacred principles to common sense.

MILITARY AVIATION.

The House has passed the military aviation bill providing for the construction of 2,200 new planes in five years. The total cost of the program has been placed at $175,000,000.

The subject of military aviation has been before the House ever since 1919. After the war a serious effort was made to draft legislation which would mean a reorganization of the whole army structure so that the country would profit by the lessons of the war.

As a result the national defense act was passed, giving to each branch of the army its proper balance to each other. The subject of aviation was given serious attention; and an American commission headed by Hon. Benedict Crowell was sent to England, France and Italy to study aviation.

On March 24, 1924, the House adopted a resolution providing for a select committee of inquiry. This committee, called the Lampert committee, examined 150 witnesses over a period of eleven months. In January and February, 1925, the House committee on military affairs held hearings to inquire into the desirability of air service unification. Brig. Gen. Mitchell was the leading witness.

On September 12, 1925, President Coolidge appointed the Morrow board, which heard many witnesses, and made its report November 30, 1925. The result of all these investigations is the bill the House has passed. It has for its purpose the providing of methods by legislation to bring about greater efficiency in the air activities of the army without doing injustice to the other branches. The title "air service" is changed to "air corps," thus conforming to the titles of other branches of the army.

Sir Thomas Lipton thinks of trying again. Better not. He might win, and the enormous advertising value of cheerful failure would be gone.

A Buffalo, N. Y., jury failed to agree on a verdict in the case of a notorious criminal charged with murder and was discharged. No explanation of the reasons for the disagreement was made public. The prisoner gloated over the victory. He won and boasted that he would never be convicted. He has been accused of several other slayings and has been transferred to Baltimore where he will go on trial for his life for the killing of a penitentiary guard when he escaped from the institution. This man and his band are said to have committed robberies that yielded them nearly $1,000,000. It is alleged that he is responsible for other murders. New York has done the proper thing in turning the man over to the Baltimore authorities. It is to be hoped that a Maryland jury will not repeat the farce that occurred in Buffalo.

The Worst Story I Heard Today—By Will Rogers

The Worst Joke I heard today was told to me by Mr. McLaughlin, the Automobile Manufacturer of Osawa, Canada. He told me this English story:

A young curate had by undue influence just been appointed to Windsor Castle. Finally he came to an older minister friend and said: "Everybody else has failed and I am assigned to preach the sermon—Queen Victoria will be there. What am I to do?" "My young friend, if you preach 30 minutes Her Majesty will be bored. If you preach 15 minutes Her Majesty will be pleased. If you preach 10 minutes Her Majesty will be delighted." "But," said the young preacher, "what am I to preach in 10 minutes?" "Well," said the adviser, "that will be a matter of utter indifference to Her Majesty!"

PRESS COMMENT.

Something to Think About.

Ohio State Journal: A thoughtful husband should remember that his poor tired wife likes to be taken out to dinner once in a while and let some one else open the cans for a change.

A Copyreader.

Detroit News: A copyreader is a newspaperman who has discovered that Big Bag takes up one-eighth of an inch less room in a headline than Balloon.

French Pretenders.

Louisville Courier Journal: French royal pretenders are dying thick and fast. They're getting to be as common as former presidents of Central American republics under the glorious system of democracy.

To Be Expected.

Milwaukee Sentinel: Now that Charlie Ross has been discovered again we may confidently expect the report of the sea serpent on the New Jersey coast and the other prewar phenomena that used to help fill up the news columns in the old days when there wasn't as much going on in the world as there is now.

Old Signs.

Philadelphia Record: In an editorial touching the passing of old-time insignia of trade, the New York World mentions many signs once familiar—the cigar store's wooden Indian, of course! the wrinkled boot above the cobbler's shop, the glided watch above the jeweler's shop, &c.—but overlooks a number of others that oldtimers hereabout will remember. For instance, there was the stuffed bear that stood guard outside the furrier's shop, until moths and the elements destroyed it, and there was the wooden horse, with all its trappings, that the harness maker wheeled out upon the pavement of mornings and took in again at night. The huge horseshoe that invariably hung above the door of the horseshoer's grimy shop has gone, and with it almost the last shreds of the old-time wheelwright's shop, the wheelwright has trundled down the corridors of time, too. The most conspicuous signs still left to us, though considerably modernized, are the red and blue bottles in the drug store window, the three golden balls of "Mine Uncle," and the barber's striped pole.

"Any Day Stuff."

New York Times: People familiar with the secrets of the composing room in newspaper offices can do more than guess as to the origin and nature of the "zoo notes" that formed a part so strange of the exigencies of the day that survived in London the first day of the general strike. They were simply "stand over stuff," or "use when room."

As it was, however, the "notes" served another and better purpose for the uninitiated—they tended to prove that the situation was not so desperate as it seemed, at least in the estimation of those who got out the little paper, and therefore the effect probably was good on the public. Not many jokes are made in London just now, and every bit of cheerfulness helps.

Proof Positive.

Troy Times: At a meeting in New York to discuss opportunities for women in politics, one of the most prominent women in the Democratic party in the State said from the platform that the fair sex was not equal in intellect to the men. The

On Finding the Point

By GLENN FRANK

MAYBE, after all, the art of civilization can be reduced to the art of finding the point.

The main issue too often escapes in our controversies. Half of our lives are spent arguing over incidental things that have nothing to do with the main issue we think we are attacking or defending.

Lloyd C. Douglas, in a stimulating little volume called "These Sayings of Mine," in discussing the piddling with nonessentials that marks so many of our controversies, says:

"It reminds one of the various objections raised when electrical communication was in its early stages of development.

"It was announced that a man proposed to send a message over wires fastened to wooden poles.

"How could a man send a message over a wire?

"Would the writing go through the wire?

"How absurd!

"When telegraphy became an accomplished fact, the public accepted it and made use of it. Most people did not pretend to understand it; they only knew that it was practicable.

"Messages did actually go hundreds of miles, by way of wires affixed to wooden poles.

"Presently it was proposed that a telegraph wire be made long enough to cross the ocean.

"Loud laughter was heard in many quarters.

"Here was a man who thought he could plant telegraph poles in the sea!

"The wire concept and the pole concept were indispensable to each other.

"It was only when the submarine cable had been demonstrated that many persons reluctantly conceded that telegraph poles were not essential to telegraphy.

"It could be done, apparently, with wires alone.

"After a while the suggestion came that telegraphy could be accomplished without wires.

"The lay mind was all confused with nonessentials.

"To have instantaneous communication, you must have poles and wires spanning the distance traveled by the message."

In many things beside the development of communication we miss the point by pinning our faith to the poles and wires that may have been essential in the past but have long since become nonessential.

Effective living depends upon our seeing the point.

Vegetables and Brains.

Philadelphia Inquirer: A scientist has proved (to his own satisfaction) that plants also have brains and souls. Thus after many years Bunthorne is justified. Lovers of the Gilbert and Sullivan opera, "Patience," will fondly recall his preference for "a sentimental passion of a vegetable fashion."

"An affection a la Plato.

For a bashful young potato.

Or a not too French French bean."

And of course a potato or a bean without brains and soul could never reciprocate fond human affection.

Coolidge and King George.

Brooklyn Eagle: If King George of Great Britain and Ireland wears a 6½ hat and President Coolidge of the United States requires 7½, hasty conclusions should be avoided. But the modesty of King George is as marked as the caution of Coolidge.

Equestrian Statues.

Los Angeles Times: It is possible that in the lapse of time some American city will rear a statue of Gen. Pershing mounted upon his favorite horse, but this will be the last of our equestrian heroes. The war lords in these days are really desk men and they do not do their heavy work in their bathrobes if they like. If they have any hard riding to do, they will call a taxi.

The warrior no more rides along his lines wrapped in an embroidered cloak and mounted upon a plunging

"Old Ironsides."

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It gives me great pleasure to acknowledge the support given by The Post to the recent campaign for "Old Ironsides" in the schools of Washington.

In both editorials and news columns indorsement of the campaign was such as to arouse maximum interest and to present an effective appeal which should be reflected in a most substantial contribution to the "Old Ironsides" fund.

There is no doubt that a renewed patriotic interest in our naval history has been inspired by the splendid support given this movement by the Washington papers, and as chairman of the national committee it is my privilege to express to you the sincere appreciation of the committee.

Mighty Little Relief.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Since your editorial upon civil service retirement in this morning's Post is apt to convey the impression that the annuities said to have the President's support would "give great relief" to the retired Federal employees as a class, I ask space in which to present a few facts which are capable of ready verification.

Under the plan proposed, a maximum annuity of $1,000 is provided for. But this is the peak annuity—the highest possible of attainment. Of the 11,689 retired employees in 1925 (the latest official figures), only 1,971 (less than one in ten) would be eligible to receive the maximum annuity, requiring, as it does, if the terms of the Stanford and Lehlbach bills be followed, a service of not less than 30 years, with average basic salary for the ten years next preceding retirement of not less than $1,600 per annum. Substantially two-thirds of the entire number of retired Federal employees in 1925 had salaries, at the time of their retirement, of less than $1,400 per annum. To be exact, 189 had been in receipt of salaries of $599 or less; 191 from $600 to $699; 424 from $700 to $799; 494 from $800 to $899; 508 from $900 to $999; 2,078 from $1,000 to $1,199, and 3,689 from $1,200 to $1,399.

In a retirement plan, the element which must be kept constantly in mind, for it is its very aim and object, is a general average sufficient upon which to live. Maximums often merely serve the purpose of a basis for calculation. Thus, we might employ the tip of the Washington Monument as a basis in determining the permissible height of dwellings in Washington, but to how many dwellers would it, in that capacity, possess any considerable significance?

Here are some of the increases over present retirement annuities: To the $1,200 salary employee, who now receives $720 annually if he has served 30 years or more, the increase provided is $30 a year; or about 8 cents a day additional. Similarly, the $1,000 salary employee, now receiving $600 annually, would receive an increase of $25, or a little over 7 cents a day. The $900 salary employee, whose maximum present annuity is $540, would have this raised to $562, an increase of about 50 cents a week. The $800 salary employee, with a present retirement annuity of $480, would have this raised to $500, an increase of a little less than 6 cents a day. Judge for yourself whether this would "give great relief."

Every Night

Do this to keep your skin clear and pretty

By NORMA TALMADGE

(Copyright, 1926, by P. O. Beauty Features.)

If powder or rouge ever touches your face, do this—a simple rule that is bringing natural loveliness to thousands

MOST women these days use powder or rouge, make-up in one way or another. Yet not one woman in fifty knows how to use these accessories in safety to her skin.

Correctly used, powders, rouge and make-up will not injure. Incorrectly used, they invite a poor complexion.

Note the rule below. Try it for one week. Mark the improvement in your skin when pores are nightly relieved of their "make-up" accumulations with the soothing olive and palm-lather of Palmolive in this way: Powders, rouge and all cosmetics have a tendency to clog the pores, often to enlarge them. Blackheads and disfigurements often follow. Never let make-up stay on over night. This is all-important, a fundamental in correct skin care.

WHAT YOU MUST DO Wash your face gently with Palmolive Soap, massaging it softly into the skin. Rinse thoroughly. Then repeat both washing and rinsing. Apply a touch of cold cream—that is all. Follow these rules. Your skin will be soft and lovely. As the months roll by, you'll need fewer and fewer cosmetics.

Do not use ordinary soaps in the

BE SURE YOU GET THE REAL PALMOLIVE

Remember that before Palmolive came, women were told, "use no soap on your faces." Soaps then were judged too harsh. Palmolive is a beauty soap made for one purpose only: to safeguard your complexion. 60 years of soap study stand behind it. Millions of pretty skins prove its effectiveness beyond all doubt.

And it costs but 10c the cake—so little that millions let it do for their bodies what it does for their faces. Obtain Palmolive today. Note what an amazing difference one week makes. The Palmolive Company (Del. Corp.), Chicago, Illinois.

CAPITAL SOCIETY EVENTS

THE President and Mrs. Coolidge held a reception yesterday at 12:30 o'clock in the Blue room at the White House for the board of bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church, now in conference here.

The Ambassador of Great Britain and Lady Isabella Howard have issued invitations for a dinner Tuesday evening at the Embassy.

The Vice President and Mrs. Dawes were the guests in whose honor Senator and Mrs. Claude A. Swanson entertained at dinner last evening.

The Secretary of War and Mrs. Dwight F. Davis and the Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Willbur were the guests in whose honor the Italian Ambassador, Nobile Giacomo de Martino, entertained at dinner last evening at the embassy. The guests were Senator and Mrs. William H. King, the Minister of Panama and Mme. Alfaro; Representative Edward N. Carpenter, Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Mason M. Patrick, Rear Admiral and Mrs. Henry Wiley, Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Amos A. Fries, Col. and Mrs. Nelson E. Margeris, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Warren; Mrs. Hope Slater, Mme. The Argentine Ambassador and Mme. Pueyrredon departed yesterday afternoon for New York. The Miles, Pueyrredon departed in the morning by motor and Mr. Horatio Pueyrredon will depart today to join his parents there. They all will sail tomorrow on the Western World to pass three months in the Argentine. During the absence of Ambassador Pueyrredon, Mr. Eduardo Racedo, first secretary of the embassy, will be chargé d'affaires.

Dr. Capote Returning.

Dr. Pedro R. Capote has been appointed second secretary to the Cuban embassy. He was attached to the legation in Washington in 1920 and was here about eight months and has since been in Havana. Dr. Capote soon will marry Senorita Corina Garcia, daughter of the late Senor Belayo Garcia, who was one time speaker of the house and a prominent lawyer in Havana. He is expected to arrive in Washington the latter part of the month, bringing his young bride with him.

Of interest to Washington is the news that Senorita Angela Machado, daughter of the President of Cuba, who was here on a visit with her father last year and was extensively entertained, and whose engagement recently was announced, has chosen Monday, May 31, as the date for her wedding. Senorita Machado will be married to Senor Jose E. Obregon, secretary to the president and of a very prominent family in Havana.

The Minister of Nicaragua, Senor Don Salvador Castillero, entertained at dinner last evening in the Flor-entine room at the Vardman Park hotel. The guests were the Minister of Bolivia and Mme. Jaimes Freyre, the Minister of Haiti and Mme. Hannibal Price, the director general of the Pan American union, Dr. Leo S. Rowe; Mr. and Mrs. Stokely Morgan, Dr. and Mrs. M. H. Zepeda, of Nicaragua; Dr. and Mrs. Fenton Bradford, Mr. and Mrs. C. Muller, Mr. and Mrs. G. O. Salinas, son-in-law and daughter of the Minister; Mme. Philippe Soyez.

Miss Yolanda Freyre, Miss Rosinda Fortin, Miss Lolita Dawson, Dr. Cuadra Pasos, Mr. F. Hopkins, Mr. Day, and Mrs. Zenita, first secretary of the Nicaraguan legation, and Mr. Miguel Cuadra Pasos.

The Minister to Sweden and Mrs. Robert Wood Bliss will arrive in New York May 18 on the Leviathan and will come to Washington to open their house in Georgetown.

Mrs. Henry F. Dimock entertained at dinner last evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton Fish, sr., of New York. There were 34 guests, among whom were Senator Richard P. Ernst, Senator and Mrs. Frederic M. Sackett, the Assistant Attorney General and Mrs. William J. Donovan, the Assistant Secretary of War and Mrs. Hanford MacNider, Mr. and Mrs. William R. Castle, Jr., the Secretary to the President and Mrs. Everett Sanders and Rear Admiral and Mrs. Cary T. Grayson.

Luncheon to Envoys.

The director general of the Pan-American Union, Dr. L. S. Rowe, entertained at luncheon yesterday at the Pan-American annex in honor of the Minister of Venezuela, Senor Dr. Carlos F. Grisard. Other presiding were the Secretary of the Navy, Mr. Curtis D. Wilbur; the Undersecretary of State, Mr. Joseph C. Grew; the United States Minister to Costa Rica, Mr. Roy T. Davis; the United States Minister to Salvador, Mr. Jefferson Caffery; the governor of Porto Rico, Mr. Horace M. Towner; the Assistant Secretary of State, Col. Robert E. Olds; the Assistant Secretary of Commerce, Mr. J. Walter Drake; Senor Dr. Luis Churion, of Venezuela; Mr. Francis White, of the Department of State; Mr. Stokely W. Morgan, of the Department of State; Mr. S. Williamson Howell, of the Department of State; Dr. Samuel P. Capen, chancellor of the University of Buffalo; Mr. Albert Kelsey, of Philadelphia, and the assistant director of the Pan-American Union, Dr. Esteban Gil Borges.

A group of wives of senators will entertain at a large tea and musical recital this afternoon at the Congressional Country club for the members of the National League of Girls' Clubs, who are in Washington attending a three days' convention and sightseeing trip. Among the ladies who will receive the guests and assist at the tea table are Mrs. William M. Butler, Mrs. Jesse H. Metcalf, Mrs. Peter G. Gerry, Mrs. Hiram Bingham, Mrs. George P. McLean, Mrs. Frederick H. Gillett, Mrs. Frank L. Greene, Mrs. Porter H. Dale, Mrs. George H. Moses, Mrs. James W. Wadsworth, Jr., Mrs. Royal S. Copeland, Mrs. Thomas F. Bayard, Mrs. O. E. Weller, Miss Bruce and Mrs. Louis A. Frothingham, wife of Representative Frothingham.

Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Parker and Miss Elizabeth Parker have issued invitations for a small dance Saturday evening, May 22, at 11 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Cameron, who, accompanied by the latter's daughter, Miss Elsie Quinby, have been on a motor trip to Rome and Florence, have returned to their apartment in Paris.

Mrs. Conger Pratt is at the Ritz-Carlton hotel, New York, where she will remain until the end of the week.

Dinner for Visitor.

Mrs. George H. Crossfield, of England, wife of Col. Crossfield, president, Federation Interallie des Anciens Combattants (Fidac), was entertained at a dinner party by Mrs. Julius I. Peyer at her home, 2216 Wyoming avenue, last evening. After the dinner the party went to the Congressional Country club.

The guests were Mrs. H. Nelson Jackson, of Burlington, Vt., wife of Col. Jackson, vice president of the Fidac; Mrs. Lennel Bolles, of New York; Mrs. A. H. Casque, of South Carolina; Mrs. James A. Drain, Mrs. Thacker V. Walker, president of the women's auxiliary of the District of Columbia American Legion; Miss Helen McCarthy, Miss Helen O'Neill, Miss Marietta Pierson, Miss Emily J. Carey and Miss Esther Hall.

Mme. Juan B. Chevalier has issued cards for a luncheon which she will give in the presidential suite at the Willard Wednesday. She will have twelve guests.

Mrs. Albert H. Putney, wife of the dean of American university, entertained at luncheon in the reception room of the Mayflower yesterday in compliment to Mrs. B. B. Zauskine, wife of the Minister of Lithuania. The other guests were Mrs. Seva, wife of the Minister of Latvia; Mrs. Charles L. McNary, wife of the senator from Oregon; Mrs. Charles S. Denney, wife of the senator from Illinois; Mrs. Kazem, wife of the chargé d'affaires of the Persian legation; Mrs. Adolph J. Sabath, wife of the representative from Illinois; Mrs. Fred Purnell, wife of the representative from Indiana; Mrs. Adjemovitch, wife of the secretary of the legation of the kingdom of the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes; Mrs. Fred A. Britton, wife of the Representative from Illinois; Mrs. Stanley H. Kunz, wife of the representative from Illinois; Mrs. Harry E. Hull, wife of the commissioner general of immigration; Mrs. Stokely Morgan and Mrs. Lucy Russell Ogston, daughter of the former American Minister to Persia.

Mrs. Edwin S. Fuller entertained at luncheon yesterday at the Washington club in compliment to Mrs. Edward S. Porcher, of Cocoa, Fla., who is visiting her sisters, Mrs. Delos A. Blodgett and Mrs. Charles Graves Matthews. There were sixteen in the company.

Mrs. Sarah Lee Phillips is in Memphis, Tenn., where she went to attend the funeral of her brother, Mr. Bayless Lee, which took place yesterday.

A special musical program will be given Sunday evening at the Congressional Country club at 8 o'clock. The artists will be Elena de Sayn, Russian violinist, and Romeo Guaraldi, barytone, accompanied by Mrs. Elizabeth Gardiner Coombs.

Bryn Mawr Club Guest.

Miss Marion Park, president of Bryn Mawr, will be the guest of the Washington Bryn Mawr club at tea tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. Alvin Barber, at Bradley Hills.

Miss Vera Bloom, daughter of Representative and Mrs. Sol Bloom, of New York, was the principal speaker following the luncheon of the Federation of Women's clubs at the Hotel Roosevelt yesterday.

Mrs. Fred H. Baker, of Martinsburg, W. Va., announces the marriage of her daughter, Miss Harriet Turner Duck, to Mr. Robert Harris Dyson, son of Rear Admiral and Mrs. C. W. Dyson.

Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont arrived at the Willard last night from her home in New York. She plans to pass several days here.

Arts Club Musicals.

The Misses Colhoun were hostesses at the Arts club Tuesday evening, when a program of music was presented by Mrs. Duff Lewis, Mrs. Paul Bleyden, Mrs. Selma Klein and Mr. Dorie Walton.

A play and dance will be given by the Virginia Military Institute Dramatic club and Cadet orchestra tomorrow evening at the Willard hotel, under the auspices of the Robert E. Lee chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy. Mrs. Walter Everett Hutton, president of Robert E. Lee chapter, announces the following additional list of patrons and patronesses:

Protestants and Catholics
Have Been Forced to Flee

Religious persecution is a fact in Mexico, the Rev. J. J. Burke, general secretary of the National Catholic Welfare conference, declared in answer to Bishop George A. Miller, of Mexico City, in a statement yesterday.

"With feelings of mingled indignity and disappointment," Father Burke said, "I read in The Washington Post of today an account of the address which Bishop Miller delivered last night at the Foundry Methodist Episcopal church in this city, and in which he discussed the religious problems of the Mexican people.

"Referring to the specific statements which he made," said Father Burke, "I would be much indebted to him if he would cite some authority for the statement that in 1850 the Roman Catholic Church had secured control of nearly one-half of all the property in the republic of Mexico. I do not know whether he, in referring to 'property,' is speaking of the surface extent of lands, or of the money value of investments. Regardless, however, to which of these he refers, his statement is misleading. The Catholic Church had not, in 1850, acquired control of anything like one-half of the property in the republic of Mexico.

Persecution Declared Fact.

"Bishop Miller is quoted as stating that there is no religious persecution in Mexico today. Religious persecution is a fact in Mexico. It has been a fact in Mexico since the enactment of the constitution at Queretaro in 1916 and promulgated in 1917. This persecution is of a two-fold character. The constitution itself and laws enacted under the constitution will, if persisted in, destroy the corporate existence of the church and so handicap ministers of religion that it will be impossible for them to exercise effectively their sacred mission. I say this not with reference to the Catholic Church alone, but with reference to all churches, to organized religion, to Christianity as such. If the constitution of 1917 is fully enforced and if the laws enacted under the constitution are impartially executed, it will become impossible for the Christian Church to survive long in Mexico.

"Late in 1926, the present federal administration in Mexico entered upon a career of ruthlessness with regard to religion. Dioceses have been suppressed, the number of the clergy has been reduced, seminaries have been closed and the teaching of all creeds have been closed or regulated. Indeed, it would be difficult to point out any phase of its work in which the church has been permitted to engage freely.

Ministers Flee Country.

"Bishop Miller states that the Protestant institutions of Mexico have found it possible to carry on under the constitution of 1917 and under the present administration. I wonder how a bishop of the Methodist Episcopal church, a native-born Mexican, has been able to perform the sacred ministry. Other alien ministers have found it necessary to abandon Mexican territory because they could not bring their consciences to accept the conditions which were placed upon the exercise of their ministry.

"Ten years of travail in Mexico have all but exhausted the moral and physical power of the Mexican nation. It does behoove us and the people of our country to study and to know the true conditions to which our sister republic is being reduced."

Sigma Nu Phi Opens Convention Here

The twenty-first annual convention of Sigma Nu Phi local fraternity opens today at the Lee house with the national president, David D. Caldwell, of the Department of Justice, presiding. The session will continue tomorrow. Tonight there will be a ball and tomorrow night a banquet at which Frank L. Peckham, former department commander of the American legion, will preside. Both functions will be held at the Lee house.

Delegates have come to this convention from the following States: California, Colorado, Michigan, Louisiana, Illinois, North Carolina, Virginia, Pennsylvania, District of Columbia, Tennessee and Missouri.

'Uncle Joe' Cannon Today Marks Ninetieth Birthday

Speaker's Thirst Once Stop-

History.

Evansville, Ills., May 6 (By A. P.).—A huge cake, bearing 90 burning candles, was presented to "Uncle Joe" Cannon today by members of the Danville Kiwanis club. The veteran statesman will be 90 years old tomorrow. A special program was given by the club in his honor.

"Uncle Joe" today wired to Speaker Longworth, of the national House, that he would be unable to go to Washington to attend a birthday party to be given for him by the House.

By CHARLES A. HAMILTON.

It was ten years ago today that "Uncle Joe" Cannon celebrated his eightieth birthday anniversary, with a dinner to a big party of friends and associates. The occasion was ripe for pleasant little stories concerning the venerable statesman, than whom none more genuinely popular ever sat in the House of Representatives.

One of these stories concerned a dinner which Uncle Joe attended some 20 years before, when the host was a gentleman who could not resist the temptation to explain the source of each piece of furniture in his dining room, and each bottle of wine. As the butler uncorked a brand which was said to be of exceptional excellence, the dinner giver explained that he had purchased that wine at the auction sale of the effects of a former diplomatic representative of a foreign government. He had talked for ten minutes on the virtues of the vintage and was about to announce the cost per bottle, when Uncle Joe grew impatient.

"We don't give a continental darn what you paid for that wine," he exclaimed; "this is not the committee on appropriations, but a bunch of thirsty imbeciles, and if you don't get that bottle to pass it pretty quick I for one, will help myself to a whole bottle." The wine was soon flowing.

John, the barber in the House shop, always trimmed the beard and cut the hair of the gentleman from Illinois. Uncle Joe hung his collar on a rack and settled himself into the chair. "Think you better remove that collar, Mr. Cannon," said the barber as he was about to begin his consoling duties. "But I have just hung my collar on that rack," he replied. "Yes, I know that," answered John. "But I had reference to the collar which was under the one which you have shed." And sure enough Uncle Joe, who always wore a "standup," had placed around his neck two collars, but had forgotten his cravat that morning.

Old Coat Like Bad Penny.

For several years during his congressional career, Mr. Cannon occupied a suite of rooms in the Willard hotel with his daughter. His utter disregard for his personal appearance worried the daughter greatly. She was disgusted particularly over the manner in which her father kept an overcoat which he wore for several years. Finally she persuaded him to go to a clothing establishment to purchase a new one. But on his return from the Capitol that evening he was toggled in the same disreputable old coat. Miss Cannon gave him a severe scolding, until he explained that he had found an overcoat which suited him exactly, but that as the price demanded was $40, he had declined to purchase, as he knew that he could get one "just as good out home in Danville for $15."

Daughter asked the name of the clerk who has waited on father, but could get no satisfaction. Next evening, however, she informed her parent that if he would go to the same store and inquire for a certain clerk, whom she named, she was sure that he could be supplied with an excellent coat at the price which he had fixed. Next day, on his way to the Capitol, Uncle Joe called for the clerk whose name he had on his memorandum. He was fitted with an excellent coat for $15. On reaching his committee room the garment was greatly admired, and the chairman rather gleefully told the price.

"Fifteen dollars!" exclaimed Hemmingway, of Indiana, a member of the committee. "Why I'll give you $25 for it right now." The bargain was struck. Next day Joe took the cash and sent for his old coat. When he reached the hotel that night there was a scene, and a certain lecture such as the gentleman from Illinois enjoyed on the floor of the House, but was not overanxious to listen to in his own home. At last he was able to get a few words in edgewise. He explained how he had purchased the coat of the clerk named by daughter, but that when he had thrust upon him the chance for a quick profit of $10, he did not propose to miss that opportunity for the sake of appearances. Miss Cannon's laughter almost brought on hysteria. The fact that the extra $25 had been paid out of her own funds seemed to add to the humor of the situation. Right in the middle of the merriment Hemmingway and about all the other members of the committee on appropriations came up with the coat. The festivities which followed lasted far into the night.

"Dry" Side Won for Cannon.

"How did you come to buy an automobile?" asked Jim Tanney, as he accepted an invitation to ride in his new car. "I thought that you were unalterably opposed to the new-fangled means of transportation," "but the wimmin' folks insisted on having one and they picked this one out. But I can't exactly say I bought it. You see my son-in-law wanted to match to see who should pay the bill. I was agreeable and reached down for a chip. I spat on that chip and tossed it up. John said 'wet' and it came 'dry' so he paid for the car."

Elliot Woods, then the superintendent of the Capitol, the title of "Architect" had been set aside, because Mr. Woods was not a member of the "Institute"—designed the site of the old Congressional hotel, as well as the former residence of Judge Holt. It was approved by the Capitol commission and its erection was authorized. Mr. Woods insisted that one of the foremost architects in the country should be retained to revise the plans and supervise the construction.

Uncle Joe swore that there should be no such additional expense added to the cost. But Mr. Woods was persistent. He insisted that only through such an arrangement could criticism be silenced. He won the argument and a recognized firm of the highest standing was engaged, one of the firms to supervise the drawings for the House building and the other member being commissioned to give similar assistance in the construction of the building for the offices of the Senate.

Architect Is Rewarded.

The extra cost was somewhere about $50,000, and Uncle Joe was always displeased about that payment, just for a name, as he declared. He thought that Woods was entitled to something more than the meager salary which he had drawn and eventually got his reward, for when the work was all completed and the buildings ready for occupancy, Congress voted Mr. Woods an honorarium of $30,000 at the instance of Uncle Joe.

One of the most popular counterfeits presentments of the former Speaker now extant is a photograph wherein he is pictured wearing a hat of the vintage of 1844. That hat was the old rough beaver type. It was the gift of Representative Kent, of California, who visited the oldest hat manufacturing concern in Philadelphia and found that there was still employed by that firm a hatter who "knew how." Also the firm had in its vaults a few of the real beaver skins. Yes, they would make up a couple of those old-time William Henry Harrison hats. Uncle Joe still has his.

H. M. JORDON, FORMERLY CAPITOL LIBRARIAN, DIES

Was in 89th Year; Funeral Services Will Be Held Tomorrow Morning.

BODY TO BE CREMATED

Horace M. Jordan, for many years a member of the staff of the Library of Congress, died yesterday afternoon in the Homeopathic hospital, in his 89th year. Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock at Lee's chapel, with the Rev. U. G. B. Pierce, of the Unitarian Church, officiating. The body will be cremated here and the ashes sent to Portland, Maine, where committal services will be held early next week.

Mr. Jordan was born in Westbrook, Maine, November 8, 1837. He was a member of a prominent family, and was graduated from Bowdoin college in 1858. He was a classmate of the late Gen. Ellis Spear, the Rev. Dr. Frank Sewell, of this city, and of former Speaker Thomas Brackett Reed, of Portland. He was admitted to the bar of Maine in the same class with Reed, but preferred journalism to law. He served in the last year and a half of the Civil war on staff duty as a volunteer, aid de camp in the department of the Gulf.

At the close of the war he remained in the South, becoming associate editor of the New Orleans Republican during the reconstruction period, and later, editor of the Vicksburg Times. In the early seventies Mr. Jordan returned North and was connected with Boston and New York newspapers for several years. For a time he was associated with John Russell Young, on the staff of the New York Times, and came with him to Washington when Young was appointed librarian of Congress by President McKinley. He was placed in charge of the branch office of the library at the Capitol, where he remained until placed on the retired list, a few years ago.

He was a member of the Maine Historical society, the Society of Colonial Wars, the National Geographic society, and of the University and National Press clubs. He is survived by his brother, Edward C. Jordan, Portland, Maine, a civil engineer, and a nephew, Harry I. Jordan, also of Portland.

SWAN RITES TOMORROW.

Former Engraving Bureau Chief
Will Be Buried in Mount Olivet.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 10 o'clock at the Church of the Blessed Sacrament for John P. Swan, 87 years old, who died yesterday at his home, 4121 Connecticut avenue. He was former chief of the division of printing of the bureau of engraving and printing, but retired from government service 25 years ago. He had lived in Washington for more than 50 years.

He is survived by two sons, John C. Swan, of Annapolis, and Walter S. Swan, of New Jersey, and two daughters, Mrs. Anna M. Carew and Miss Catherine E. Swan, of this city. Interment will be in Mount Olivet cemetery.

Klan Members Meet Near "Hell's Bottom"

Near "Hell's Bottom," formerly known as Jackson City, Arlington county, more than 2,000 members of the Ku Klux Klan, men and women, celebrated the sixtieth anniversary of the original organization last night amid flaming torches and a flaming cross, while 50 were made members.

Following the ceremony of initiation, E. P. Randolph, great titan, of province No. 1, of Harrisonburg, Va., sketched the history of the original plan. Among those who attended were delegations from Winchester, Harrisonburg, Fairfax, Alexandria, Potomac, Washington and Ballston. Music was furnished by the Ballston Klan band.

FUTURE OF WASHINGTON VISUALIZED BY BISHOP

Architects Told That City Will Be the Most Beautiful World Capital.

FUTURE TASK OUTLINED

Visualizing a future Washington glorified by the erection of innumerable fine buildings and dominated by the National cathedral, "the Westminster Abbey of America," Bishop James E. Freeman last night pictured this city as "the most magnificent capital of the world," in an address before the American Institute of Architects, at the Chamber of Commerce.

An incomparable opportunity to elevate the ideals of American citizens and bring pride to Washingtonians particularly has been presented to architects of the United States, Bishop Freeman declared. He outlined a brilliant and ambitious task to his audience, urging them to strive for the realization of the best elements in the National Capital.

Pointing out that 56 nations are now represented in Washington, Bishop Freeman referred to the "cosmopolitanism" of the city, and the growth of education among its residents. Architects have a responsibility in turning this education to good account, he said, and satisfying that craving for the ideal which is inherent in every human being.

Cooperation between city planning and architecture was the subject of discussion at an earlier session of the institute, during which members delivered impromptu addresses on the methods of city planning and their general relation to building, real estate and designing of homes.

Three nominees for the presidency of the institute, now occupied by D. Everett Wald, of New

THE PEOPLE who are afraid of the dentist are the people who do not consult him until they have toothache. Your dentist is more interested in protecting your teeth than he is in repairing them. Go to him regularly for examination and you will escape a lot of pain and trouble.

4 out of 5 is grim pyorrhea's count

Dental statistics tell this grim story: four people out of every five are destined through neglect, to contract pyorrhea after they pass the age of forty. Thousands younger also suffer.

Pyorrhea is the dread disease of the gums which is responsible often for loss of teeth, rheumatism, neuritis and other dangerous disorders.

It starts with tender bleeding gums. Pockets form below the teeth and poisons spread relentlessly through the body.

If you have pyorrhea or any of its symptoms see your dentist at once and start brushing your teeth with Forhan's for the Gums.

To safeguard yourself against pyorrhea make Forhan's your regular dentifrice. It is the formula of R. J. Forhan, D.D.S., and contains his pyorrhea liquid which has been used by dentists for the last 15 years in the treatment of pyorrhea.

If used regularly and used in time it will prevent pyorrhea or check its course. Don't give this insidious disease a chance to start. Start using Forhan's this very day. All druggists, 35c and 60c in tubes.

SENATE VOTES PAY RAISE OF $500,000 TO FEDERAL JUDGES

Only Eight Are Against Measure Advocated by Reed, of Missouri.

By ALBERT W. FOX.

Justices of the United States Supreme Court and others in the judiciary branch of the government were voted substantial increases in salary yesterday by the Senate. Senator Reed, of Missouri, obtained passage of his bill raising the present salary of the judges by more than $500,000 annually, and as the House has already reported a bill with the same suggested increases, action at this session is practically assured.

Characterizing the courts as the real bulwarks of liberty in America, Senator Reed launched a vigorous fight for speedy action on his bill shortly after the Senate convened. Senator Walsh, of Montana, took the lead in opposing the bill and charged that the proposed increases in salary were out of line with the salaries of judges in 44 States of the Union. Mr. Walsh was determined in opposing the bill as Mr. Reed was in pressing it, but when the vote came it was found that the senator from Missouri had the support of all but three Republicans and five Democrats.

The vote was 68 to 8. Senators Borah, Howell and Norris were the Republicans and Senators Blease, Caraway, Harris, Trammell and Walsh were the Democrats voting in the negative.

Chief Justice to Get $20,500.

The salary of the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court is increased from $15,000 a year to $20,500.

The salaries of the associate justices of the Supreme Court are increased from $14,500 to $20,000.

The salaries of the circuit judges are increased from $8,500 to $12,500. There are 34 circuit judges.

The salary of each of the 128 district judges is increased from $7,500 to $10,000 a year.

The salary of the chief justice of the Court of Claims is increased from $8,000 to $12,500.

The salaries of the four judges on the Court of Claims are increased from $7,500 to $12,500.

The salary of the chief justice of the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia is increased from $9,000 to $12,500. The salary of each associate justice on this court is increased from $8,500 to $12,500.

The salary of the chief justice of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia is increased from $8,000 to $10,500.

The salaries of the associate judges on the District Supreme Court are increased from $7,500 to $10,000.

The salary of the presiding judge of the United States Court of Customs Appeals is increased from $8,500 to $12,500, and each of the five judges on this court are given the same increase.

The salary of each of the nine members of the board of general appraisers is increased from $9,000 to $10,000.

To Be Paid Monthly.

The bill provides that the salaries shall be paid in monthly installments and that the act shall take effect on the first day of the month next following its approval.

There was some spirited debate between Senator Walsh, on the one hand, and Senators Cummins, Glass, Shortridge and others. After his opening brief speech Senator Reed, of Missouri, spent most of the time standing in the aisle and watching the proceedings.

Sensor Walsh said that judges were often men who could not get business as practicing lawyers, and he took the position that Federal judges in New York, for example, required more to keep up expenses than judges in other parts of the country.

Mather Given Medal For Service to Parks

New York, May 6 (By A. P.).—Gold medals for distinguished social service were presented to four prominent persons by the National Institute for Social Service at its annual dinner tonight.

Stephen Tyng Mather, Washington, D. C., director of the park service of the Department of the Interior, was awarded one for services in the development and administration of national parks.

Others receiving the medals are Clarence H. Mackay, for service in the development of musical art; the Rev. S. Parkes Cadman, as a leader in religious thought and action; and Mrs. March Schenk Woolman, of Boston, for promotion of industrial and vocational education.

House leaders agreed to pigeon-hole this session Mills alien property bill and all other measures designed to carry out awards of German-American mixed claims commission.

House reported a bill to prohibit use by any mercantile firm of words "army" or "navy" in its business.

CANADA GETS U. S. GIN, GRAHAM TELLS CLUB

Canada, it is by no means as wet as one would suppose from reports, Sir George P. Graham, chairman, Canadian national advisory board, declared last night at the third annual dinner of the Canadian Club of Washington, in Wardman Park hotel. There, however, a tremendous amount of gin brought over from the United States, he said.

Sir George scoffed at the idea of Canada's prohibition, of the British empire, and declared that there was no race problem whatsoever there. Trade is flourishing, he said, and conditions most encouraging. The growth of Canada was referred to by Sir Esmé Howard, British ambassador, who pointed out that the Dominion was no longer colonial, but had become international.

Representative Charles A. Eaton, of New Jersey, insisted that peace can never be obtained until the English-speaking countries of the world unite in some sort of league. The United States, he said, does not care for the League of Nations, however. Dr. J. Stanley Durkee, president of the society, presided. There was music by the George Washington university male quartet and the Washington schools instrumental ensemble.

League Meeting Set For September 6

Geneva, May 6 (By A. P.).—The seventh assembly of the League of Nations was convened to meet here on September 6 by an order from Viscount Ishii, president of the league council, made public today.

The provisional agenda, which was also issued, includes action on Germany's application for league membership, which was postponed at the special March session. Action will also be taken on the disarmament question and the problem of reconstruction of the league council, both of which questions are being considered meanwhile by special commissions.

QUESTION OF PUBLIC PROTECTION IN RAIL LABOR BILL ARGUED

Watson-Parker Measure Is Assailed in Senate by Curtis, G. O. P. Leader.

(By the Associated Press.)

An argument was precipitated in the Senate yesterday over whether the Watson-Parker railroad labor bill protected the public interest.

Defending the measure, Senator Watson (Republican), Indiana, declared railroad labor disputes had to be settled either by the "olive branch or the club" and he preferred the former.

Doubting that the bill would protect the public, Senator Curtis, the Republican leader, offered an amendment authorizing the Interstate Commerce Commission to suspend or modify any wage agreement reached under its terms if it did not protect the public interest.

Senator Watson contended the amendment would cause the commission to degenerate into a body to settle trivial wage disputes. Disputants, he said, would not submit their cases to the agencies created by the bill but would go direct to the commission since it would make the ultimate settlement.

"Where is the public interest protected in the bill?" asked Senator Curtis.

"By the board of mediation and the emergency board which would be composed of representatives of the public," replied the Indiana senator.

"Under this bill a wage agreement could force increased rates," continued Senator Curtis, "and I am opposed to it unless some outside agency has the right to set aside these orders of agreement."

Senator Bruce, Democrat, Maryland, announced that he would offer an amendment giving the board of mediation authority to subpoena witnesses and documents without which, he contended, it would be powerless to obtain the facts.

Opposition to the bill was expressed in a statement by L. F. Loree, president of the Delaware & Hudson railroad, who said he also spoke for a score of other roads.

"In view of what is happening in England, where there is a complete suspension of transportation resulting from a 'sympathetic' strike of railway workers," he said, "this country can not afford the return of railway labor disputes to the old mediation system which has so signally failed in the past."

Roads mentioned by Mr. Loree as those for which he spoke were: The Delaware & Hudson; Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific; Maine Central; Western Maryland; Virginian; Denver & Rio Grande Western; Rio Grande Southern; Texas & Pacific; St. Louis, San Francisco; St. Louis & Southwestern; Wabash; Missouri, Kansas-Texas; Kansas City Southern; Bangor & Aroostook; Chicago & Alton; Pere Marquette; Ann Arbor, Erie, Minneapolis & St. Louis, and Denver & Salt Lake.

Spanish War Veterans Hold Annual Banquet

Three hundred veterans of the Spanish-American war gathered at the Roosevelt hotel last night at the annual banquet of the District department of the United Spanish War Veterans.

Carmel A. Thompson, of Cleveland, Ohio, national president, spoke. Senator Peter Norbeck, of South Dakota, spoke on the pending pension legislation. Other speakers were Representatives John M. Robison, of Kentucky; Richard N. Elliott, of Indiana; Scott Leavitt, of Montana; and Harold Knutson, of Minnesota, and H. V. Moulton, past department commander, Grand Army of the Republic, and Cayetano de Quesada, counselor for the Cuban government and honorary member of the society.

DRYS CLAIM VICTORY IN THREE PRIMARIES

(By Associated Press.)

One hundred per cent victories in each of three primaries recently held were claimed here for the drys last night by F. Scott McBride, national superintendent of the Anti-saloon league.

"Indiana has repeated the results in the South Dakota and Illinois primaries," he said. "The drys who came up for renomination for either the Senate or for Congress were either renominated or else succeeded on the ticket by another dry."

Representative Cramton (Republican), Michigan, a leader of the drys, remarked in the House yesterday that the wine and beer bills had disappeared from the newspapers and that in the Indiana primaries Tuesday all candidates for Congress or legislature who hinted at being moist on the liquor question lagged behind in the voting.

Jockey Is Arrested As He Finishes Race

When Ararat II, the favorite, faltered at several jumps and slowed down perceptibly in the flat home-stretch run, to finish third, he may have looked slow to the on-looking crowd, but it is probable that L. Cheyne, 28 years old, his jockey, didn't think he was quite so slow.

Three Baltimore police officers, Lieut. William L. Murphy and Privates Robert T. Porter and Edward J. Dunn, were waiting for Cheyne, whose home is in Washington, and arrested him as he finished weighing in. He was arrested on a charge of nonsupport preferred by his wife, Lillian, who resides at 207 K street northeast, and brought back to Washington last night by Headquarters Detective Robert Livingston.

HOUSE DEBATE ON FARM RELIEF BRINGS CLASHES

Haugen Bill Upheld and Denounced; Other Measures Are Argued.

SPONSORS GIVE VIEWS

(By the Associated Press.)

Resumption of debate in the House on farm relief legislation yesterday brought a clash of opinions as advocates of the different plans discussed the problems, one of the most important and vexing faced at this session.

The Curtis-Aswell bill was urged by Representative Aswell, of Louisiana, ranking Democrat on the agriculture committee, and co-author of the measure. He said its plan of handling each product separately could be compared to the way crafts were organized in the American Federation of Labor, while the scheme of the Haugen bill was "the one big-union idea, backed by the I. W. W. and the communists."

The Haugen bill in the early stages of debate yesterday was upheld by Representative Adkins, Republican, Illinois, and Rubey, Democrat, Mississippi, both members of the agriculture committee. They contended it was the only plan that would relieve the distress of agriculture.

At the night session, Representative Tincher (Republican), Kansas, defended his bill and asserted the Haugen measure as a direct subsidy. He declared the subsidy had been tried in England on agriculture and later on labor, resulting in "a general strike, not against the employers, but against the government itself."

The Haugen bill was advocated by Representative Wheeler (Republican), Illinois, who said it would provide a means of disposing of surplus crops at fair prices and would enable cooperative associations to develop far beyond present ability.

Representative Williamson (Republican), South Dakota, also favored the Haugen bill.

Train Unseats Driver.

Thrown to the street when the motor truck he was driving over the railroad crossing at Langdon station last night was struck by a Baltimore & Ohio freight train, A. J. Lewis, colored, 33 years old, 1528 Montello avenue northeast, received a compound fracture of the right forearm. He was treated at Casualty hospital by Dr. J. H. McNeil.

CONDUCTOR FIRST ENTRANT IN POST'S BASEBALL CONTEST

Scores of Others Follow, Seeking Places in World's Series Party.

OPPORTUNITIES ASSURE LIVELY COMPETITION

Twenty Men and Women and Two Teams Will Be Taken to All Games.

Conductor M. L. Gallagher, of the Capital Traction Co., may stand in the rear of a street car and do his riding backwards, but it doesn't follow that Mr. Gallagher is himself backward.

Mr. Gallagher, who lived at 2416 Fourteenth street northwest, was the first person to turn in a subscription in the contest being conducted by The Washington Post, whereby 46 baseball fans will be its guests at the next world series.

After Mr. Gallagher had plunged into the contest, there was a never-ending stream of subscription bearers. The contest undoubtedly will be a hard-fought one, but the prize is certainly worth it. It is hard enough even to get tickets for a world series, much less getting your traveling and hotel expenses paid. And that is what The Post will do for the successful entrants, regardless of where the series is played.

Can't Lose Anyway.

As a matter of fact, you can't lose in this contest. Even if you should fail to win a chance to see the series, at least you will receive a 5 per cent commission on subscriptions over $50.

The Post's world series party will consist of 20 men and women and two amateur or semiprofessional baseball teams. Fourteen of the 20 must live in Washington, four within a radius of 25 miles from the Capitol, and two from any place in the United States.

The two teams may be anywhere within a 25-mile radius of the Capitol. One team must be composed of players 16 years or under, and the other team must be composed of players above that age. A "team" will consist of nine players, three substitutes and a manager.

The rules governing the contest and general advice as to the best way to compete will be explained by the contest manager. He may be seen in The Washington Post building.

Don't be backward in coming forward.

LIFE INSURANCE BILL INTRODUCED IN SENATE

Sackett Licensing Measure Said to Have Support of Cerners and Baldwin.

WOULD BE PART OF CODE

A new code for the government of legal reserve life insurance business in the District is provided in a bill introduced in the Senate yesterday by Senator Sackett, of Kentucky. The bill is understood to have the approval of District life insurance companies and of Thomas M. Baldwin, District superintendent of insurance.

Enactment, it was said, will not interfere with later action on the proposed new insurance code for the District, about which there has been much controversy. The bill incorporates practically the life insurance provisions of the code submitted by Mr. Baldwin, and when other sections of that code have been agreed on, the Sackett bill can be incorporated in it practically as a whole.

Senator Sackett's bill specifically exempts from its provisions fraternal beneficial associations, associations of employees of the United States or the District, associations of employees of any person organized among and operated for themselves exclusively, or any corporation, company or association not engaged in the business of life insurance, and the legal reserve plan, the United States veterans' bureau and war risk insurance.

It provides for annual licensing of life insurance companies by the superintendent of insurance, who is empowered to make rules and regulations to carry out its provisions, which rules are to be subject to the approval of the District commissioners. Examinations of domestic companies that are incorporated in other States must be made at least once every three years, and of these and other companies as often as deemed necessary, with the provision that reports on the status of companies with headquarters in other States may be accepted. Any company may demand a hearing within ten days on any report it deems unsatisfactory.

The bill prescribes standard policy provisions, provides for deposits and reserves, imposes a fine of not more than $500 for false statements, not more than $500 for refusal to testify at any hearing the superintendent may call, and makes violation of any provision of the act a misdemeanor punishable by not more than $500 fine.

Licenses would be issued annually in May and would be issued only to persons residing in or having a place of business in the District, except in so far as brokers are concerned, who would be licensed from out-of-town but required to deposit $1,000 bond.

Veterans Insurance Bill Passed by Senate
(By the Associated Press.)
The Senate yesterday passed a bill to extend for six months after next July 2 the time for the conversion of war risk insurance policies and to authorize a new converted five-year level premium term policy. The measure now goes to the House.

The measure was approved unanimously by the Senate. It was sponsored by Senator Reed (Republican), Pennsylvania.

DOROTHY SCHURMAN SOON TO BE BRIDE

Engagement of Ambassador's Daughter to Lieut. James McHugh Announced.

Berlin, May 6 (By A. P.).—Miss Dorothy Schurman, youngest daughter of Jacob Gould Schurman, American Ambassador to Germany, will be married on May 19 to Lieut. James McHugh, it was announced today.

Miss Schurman, who is 24 years old, was a student at Rosemary hall, Greenwich, Conn., and later attended Bryn Mawr. She has been a great social favorite in Berlin and, with her sister Barbara, was regarded as one of the most eligible of debutantes here.
Lieut. McHugh is 26 years of age, and is the son of Mrs. A. F. McHugh of Wichita, Kans. He was graduated from Annapolis in 1922, entering the marines. He served at Quantico until October, 1923, and then went to the legation guard at Peking, where he met Miss Schurman, whose father at that time was Minister there.

He was detached from the Peking post last February and came to Berlin. Ambassador Schurman will hold a reception prior to the wedding which will take place May 19. The couple will sail for New York on June 20, later going to Quantico where Lieut. McHugh will be stationed.

INSURANCE MEN TO MEET.

More Than 200 Salesmen Will Attend Sessions at Mayflower.
The salesmen of the southern department of the New York Life Insurance Co. will meet today and tomorrow at the Mayflower hotel. More than 200 will attend, among them the president of the company, Darwin P. Kingsley; Second Vice President L. Seton Lindsay, and the medical director, Dr. A. B. Hobbs.

The reception committee from the Washington office is composed of Herman Friedman, C. D. Griffith, J. P. Lynch, C. H. Reisinger, R. C. Satterfield, E. B. Schwab, G. T. Thomalds, M. I. Walter, Earl P. Warfield and Miss J. M. Woods. The convention is held under the direction of Thad C. Bell, depart-

A MODERN MARRIAGE

An Absorbing Novel
By IDAH McGLONE GIBSON

SYNOPSIS. Kathlyn Leonard opens her door on a stormy night to find standing there Elton Foss. An altercation follows. She demands that he leave. He attempts to force an entrance. A revolver cracks, he falls dead. Kathlyn, horrified, closes the door. Then a man slips from the shadow. It is Rodney Evans. An officer finds him beside the body. He calls the police station. Rodney leaves after reassuring Kathlyn and goes straight to his attorney, Dick Starmount. He tells his lawyer the story of Elton Foss' death and that he had killed Foss.

Rodney and Dick Starmount call for Kathlyn at the inquest. She is very ill.

CHAPTER IX.

The Strange Voice.
"I'm very glad, Dick," Rodney Evans remarked, "that Mrs. Leonard is abroad. She is a very nervous, complaining woman with mid-Victorian ideas and I am sure that with her away there is some hope of her not hearing about our trouble for some time. Mrs. Leonard would be sure to say that we were to blame for all this disgrace. She would say that we should have acknowledged our marriage in the first place."

A low moon sent him back to the bed where Kathlyn was lying. "I must get up. I must get up," she was saying weakly. "I must get up. I must get up and help Rod." Her voice died away in a choking breath.

"The sick wagon's at the door, Mistah Rod," exclaimed the colored maid.

The nurse and doctor, who had been waiting, silently prepared Kathlyn for her trip to the hospital. In a few moments she was on the stretcher, carried through the door and placed in the ambulance.

The usual number of idlers gathered about the steps. Dick Starmount, who happened to be on the edge of the crowd, heard a woman's voice say: "I suppose Miss Leonard caught cold last night in the rain. She was all right then."

"How do you know she was out in the rain?" Starmount inquired, turning quickly.

He met the blank faces of three boys.

"Who was the girl that just spoke?"

"What girl?"

"The girl who said that Miss Leonard was out in the rain. Do you know her? Does she live in this block?"

"Say, are you a plain-clothes cop or out of a nut house?"

"Neither, my lad, but I thought I recognized the voice. It sounded just like the girl who said that Miss Leonard was out in the rain."

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

Questions pertinent to hygiene, sanitation, and prevention of disease, if matters of general interest, will be answered in this column. Where space will not permit or the subject is not suitable, letters will be personally answered, subject to proper limitations and where a stamped, addressed envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease. Requests for such service can not be answered.

RAPIDITY OF DIGESTION.

MIGHTY little remains of poor old Horace Fletcher—and what a splash in the puddle was made by said Horace. Maybe some of you remember the story. A business man who spent his health to gain his wealth. Then came the time to spend his wealth to get his health. When this time comes those who act fall into two groups. The first, those who invest time and money in the orthodox ways. The second, those who go nutty about some heterodox fad. Fletcher belonged in the second group. His fad was excessive chewing of food. Certain gentlemen were very much tempted to go along with Horace until they saw him chewing milk.

Before we leave Horace let us merely say that, prematurely old, he spent much of his later years in sanatoria and died prematurely, with many indications of a degree of senility not justified by his years.

All of which is by way of introduction to the statement that milk should be drunk at a speed which is the custom for tea, coffee and water. Sipping milk causes it to be digested slowly. Chewing it was not worth while investigating. The conclusion as to the digestibility of milk comes from Drs. Hawk and Rehfuess, who have been experimenting on rates of digestion for many years. For this purpose they have invented various instruments of precision. They can take the temperature of food in the stomach. They can watch it as it digests. They can get back samples for analysis at all stages of the process. All these things they have been doing for years—and thousands of times.

The points by which they grade digestibility are the following: Rapidity with which food leaves the stomach; rapidity with which it breaks up; results of analysis for acidity and other qualities. Some further conclusions which they have arrived at are:

Boiled milk is easiest digested. Next comes raw milk; then, pasteurized milk. Ice cream is digested slowly. This is not altogether because of the cold, for experiments show that cold drinks and foods are very rapidly warmed up, whereupon digestion goes forward at the usual speed.

The rate of digestion of the following foods is in the order given: Small quantities of milk (about 2½ ounces), fruits, gelatin puddings, larger quantities of milk (about 13 ounces), ices, pies, breads and cereals, eggs, fish, vegetables, peas, beef, chicken, lamb, ice cream, pork, nuts and guinea.

Placing eggs is not easy because much depends on the part of the egg and the way it is cooked. The raw white of an egg lends all other foods in getting through the stomach. Hard boiled eggs require about ten minutes longer to digest than soft boiled ones. Meat makes a poor showing, for two good reasons.

The tests related to stomach digestion only. They did not include digestion in the intestines. They covered only acidity and time. On both of these counts meat would be expected to make a poor showing. As a rule raw vegetables made a poorer showing than cooked ones.

CHILD HAS ST. VITUS DANCE.

Mrs. V. B. writes: My little girl, 7 years old, has St. Vitus dance. Is it cured? If so, what should be done?

REPLY.
St. Vitus dance is an infection that is very closely akin to rheumatism. It is nearly always cured, though heart disease is apt to follow in its wake.

The treatment generally starts with a period of rest in bed. Tonics

WIVES OF TOMORROW

By FRANCES McDONALD

Wanted—Some Courage.

DEAR MISS McDONALD: I have been following your articles for a period of about six months and I find them all very interesting. But I haven't seen one to be similar to my case.

So, Miss McDonald, I would be very glad to get some of your advice and I'll do anything you see best for me to do. I am only 21 years old. I have been married only 18 months, and it seems as though I can not go on living with my husband, as there's a quarrel between us day after day. It is always when he comes back after visiting his mother. Then he starts nagging at me. I never go out, not even to church on Sunday. I can't as I have no money. He refused even to buy me a winter coat and has been kicking all winter. If I ask for some money for clothes, he tells me to go to work. I never went to business—so am not trained to do anything and he knows this. He gives me $1 a day for meals and still thinks I ought to have enough left for the following day. Now Miss McDonald can you see how I can make ends meet on that amount for two people?

Now he has a very good income, but he continues to give his family whatever they want and never thinks of the future days coming. I wouldn't care if it was a case where he needed it but his father and three sisters and brother all go to business and have good salaries. I can not understand why they are causing all this trouble. All I can see is they want him to come back and live with them. They have a married daughter but never make any trouble for her and her husband.

Do you think, Miss McDonald, I should go home and ask my father for money and support? I hate to do it, as I have young brothers and sisters at home and my father is not able to work because of poor health. But I can not go on living like this any longer. So, if you'll be given in full doses. Then comes a period of quiet and rest in the open air. Tonics are continued.

Next comes carefully regulated hygiene. The heart must be watched.

Since the children are weaker than they seem, several months are required to bring them back to normal. Attendance in school must be interrupted.

SOLD HIS BLOOD: DIED.

G. X. M., M. D., writes: F. W. S., aged 52 years, was a professional seller of his blood, at which he made his living until he gave too much blood and died from its effects. The regular price seems to be $25 for a pint of blood, and some physicians say that a healthy person can restore this blood in 48 hours. Is this true, and if so, how may we know it? There are 16 pints of blood in an average human body, and it seems to me hard to tell. Is not milk converted into blood quicker than any other food?

REPLY.

When a pint of blood is withdrawn the quantity is replaced by the absorption of fluid from the tissues. This takes place within a few hours—in fact, it is almost complete within a few minutes. But the quality is another thing.

A good, healthy, virile person should have 1 per cent hemoglobin within less than a month. Occasionally a professional donor sends the pitcher to the well too often and he fails to get back his blood quality. In fact, death ensues. Giving blood frequently would be classed as a dangerous trade. Milk is a poor blood builder. Green vegetables and juicy meats are better.

BOILS NOT CONTAGIOUS.

Mrs. M. L. writes:
1. Are boils contagious?
2. Can one acquire them from sleeping every night with one who has them?
3. What causes boils?
4. Will one yeast cake, taken in the morning, cure them?

REPLY.

1. Not in the ordinary sense.
2. No.
3. Infection of the skin. Too much blood sugar is a contributing cause. So is a diet rich in starch and sweets. Dirt and grease on the skin is another cause.
4. It will help.

Keep your skin very clean. Avoid irritating or infecting it. Try a moderate fast.

Hand Embroidery

On London Gowns

London, May 6 (By A. P.).—Handembroidery was shown on many of the most attractive gowns worn by mannequins at the Drapers' show. Rep, satin, hopsacking, linen, muslin and even the finest chiffons and voiles were embroidered. Most of the designs were executed in shaded colorings, chiefly rather delicate colors. The embroidery was principally on the cuffs, collar and skirt edging. The darning stitch was used in trimming many of the summer models.

Modish Mitzi

—were she and her bosom companions shopping in THE WALNUT ROOM—would find many charming versions of this "pleated mode," in which the fashionable younger set is so much interested.

Just for instance:

There is a Smart Tailored Frock of navy blue georgette, ever so much smarter because of its three tiers of fine pleats, $60.

Another of Exquisite Flowered Chiffon chooses the loveliest of rose shades and a full pleated skirt that is particularly graceful and charming for a dance or two between "teasing," $60.

MODISH MITZI

"And so, Polly, you must give all of them away, every dress you're got," advises Mitzi. It's a sudden idea. Particularly when Polly thinks of a few favorites in her closet. But this is for charity. And Polly must deny herself something or appear selfish. (Polly notices that Mitzi is wearing a very new dress with a scarf ending in pleats, also with a pleated skirt.)

Mitzi Gives or Takes More for Charity

There are always two sides to any question, reasons Polly. If she gave away her clothes she'd have to buy some new ones. Mitzi is shopping with her and showing her that the new styles with pleats are ever so smart. This dress with the pleats in there is very becoming. More so than any dress Polly has in her present wardrobe.

Mitzi has urged Polly to try on this flowered chiffon frock with finely pleated skirt. Isn't it adorable? And pleats are quite the newest thing. Polly should have more of them because they suit her so well. Polly is easy prey to Mitzi's campaign. Mitzi will get Polly's clothes, all right!

"Just fancy," says Mitzi to the Goofy, "Polly has done such a lovely thing. Given all her clothes to the poor." "We have just been buying me new ones," adds Polly. "And now, you can take us to tea," says Mitzi. "I've never worked so hard before in my life." And the Goofy thinks how wonderful, how self-sacrificing Mitzi is!

EQUINO BEAT THE CRAZY FIELD IN PIMLICO FEATURE

E.F. Whitney's Joy Smoke Second

Single Foot Takes 3d Honors; Only Seven Face Barrier.

Gun Boat Is Victor Over Jumps; Third Won by Murzim.

PIMLICO RACK TRACK, Md., May 6.—The Seagram stable's Edisto won the Pimlico spring handicap, today's feature, with a ridiculous ease from a half dozen other starters over a route of a mile and a sixteenth. A dozen lengths behind the winner was Edward F. Whitney's Joy Smoke to place, while J. E. Griffith's Single Foot kept up the chase, taking third place. The Seagram stable's Edisto won the Pimlico spring handicap, today's feature, with a ridiculous ease from a half dozen other starters over a route of a mile and a sixteenth. A dozen lengths behind the winner was Edward F. Whitney's Joy Smoke to place, while J. E. Griffith's Single Foot kept up the chase, taking third place. The Seagram stable's Edisto won the Pimlico spring handicap, today's feature, with a ridiculous ease from a half dozen other starters over a route of a mile and a sixteenth. A dozen lengths behind the winner was Edward F. Whitney's Joy Smoke to place, while J. E. Griffith's Single Foot kept up the chase, taking third place.

It was an excellent performance for Edisto. Although his time of 1:45 for the mile and a sixteenth was three-fifths of a second off the track record, it was the best time ever recorded in the Spring handicap. Edisto, breaking from the extreme outside, was rushed to the front at the break and soon opened up a lead of several lengths. Joy Smoke, Single Foot and Mother's Son followed the leader up to the back stretch in the order named, but they were several lengths away from Edisto.

Mother's Son was the first to give up the chase, but Joy Smoke and Single Foot held on, although they were nowhere near the leader entering the stretch. Edisto kept up this fast stride through the stretch and went under the wire just breezing. Joy Smoke easily bested Single Foot for second money.

THE original money list for the race called for thirteen starters, but six were withdrawn. Included among the scratchers was J. E. Griffith's Preakness and Derby hope, Canter.

After the race Canter worked a mile and an eighth in 1:55. He went the mile in 1:41. It was considered a good time for a horse that had been scratched from the Preakness and Derby hope, Canter.

Waller J. Salmon's Gunboat was a handy winner of the Elkhart club steeplechase, finishing seven or eight lengths ahead of the ill-fated Casette, who was disqualified Tuesday, after winning. Ararat was third, Dragon de Vertu fourth, and Pletwood, the other starter, failed to finish.

Taking command at the break, Gunboat, a son of the illustrious Man o' War, never relinquished the lead. In fact, he was threatened at any part of the journey.

Ararat, and then Casette, followed the leader most of the way. Gunboat drew away from them easily when they collapsed on the last turn of the field.

Northland, a son of North Star III and Diversion, made it two in a row for the Salmon stable in winning the first division of the Graduate purse. Dumpty, racing for the Glen Riddle farm, placed, and Long Joe was third.

Dumpty broke from the rail position and was first away from the barrier. Northland collared him entering the stretch, but Dumpty held on with courage until a sixteenth of a mile from home where the Salmon colt drew away to win rather easily. Long Joe was forced to go to the outside entering the stretch, but closed fast and was easily best of the others.

JOHNNY MAIBEN, who was astride Northland, came right back and made it two in a row for the Salmon stable in winning the first division of the Graduate purse.

Murzim broke his field, went into a good lead, but began to loaf a little in the stretch. Maiben applied the whip once and Murzim drew away to win rather handily from Handclasp, who placed. The latter lost considerable ground by going wide at the head of the stretch.

Tamiami Trail, an outsider, took the lead at the head of the stretch. Maiben applied the whip once and Murzim drew away to win rather handily from Handclasp, who placed. The latter lost considerable ground by going wide at the head of the stretch.

There were only five starters and the Seagram stable's Redstone was installed the favorite. But when Hamadan outran Redstone from the break the Seagram stable representative gave up the chase and stopped badly, finishing last.

Sir Leonid, outran for three-quarters of a mile, went to Hamadan with a rush entering the stretch but never could get close enough to be dangerous. Feyson was far back to be third.

Jim Crow was much the best of the juveniles that raced in the second division of the Graduate purse. Going extremely wide at the head of the stretch Jim Crow showed plenty of courage in coming back to win by more than a length over Star Ray, one that was well played.

MINUTE MOVIES

ED WHEELAN'S
WILDEST SERIAL
EPISODE TEN
"UP THE AMAZON"

THREE WEEKS LATER, PROF. FRAUD AND HIS PARTY OUTFIT AT A SMALL SOUTH AMERICAN PORT NEAR THE MOUTH OF THE AMAZON -

HERE JUAN, PUT ALL THE PROVISIONS IN THE BOAT. WE TOW!!

IM JUST THRILLED TO A FRAZZLE DOCTOR - YOU WILL HAVE TO BE READY TO GIVE ME FIRST AID ANY MINUTE!

AND NOW UP THE MYSTERIOUS RIVER, PROF. FRAUD GUIDES HIS PARTY ON ONE OF THE STRANGEST QUESTS IN ALL THE HISTORY OF SCENARIO-WRITING

MANY MILES UP THE RIVER, THE FAME-MAD PROFESSOR ORDERS THE TENT PITCHED ON A SPOT NOT FAR FROM WHERE HE LEFT HIS HYPNOTIZED VICTIM -

THE FOLLOWING MORNING, FRAUD, IN ORDER THAT HE MAY LOOK UP HIS "PLANT SUGGESTS" THAT THEY REST AND LIE AROUND CAMP.

ILL JUST GO UP THE RIVER BANK AND LOOK AROUND A BIT WHILE YOU ALL REST UP!!

NOT AT ALL, PROFESSOR ILL GO WITH YOU!

IF THE "MISSING LINK" IS IN THESE PARTS, WE MAY COME UPON HIM ANY MINUTE - BESIDES I DONT WANT TO REST!!

GASOLINE ALLEY

MR. WICKER, ILL NEVER FORGET YOUR KINDNESS IN HELPING ME STRAIGHTEN OUT MY FLORIDA AFFAIRS.

NONSENSE, WALT, IT'S STRICTLY BUSINESS.

IM FEELING PRETTY FOXY, SKEEZIX! YOU CANT BEAT ME UP TODAY.

I FOXY TOO, YOU WATCH!

SAY, PHYLLIS, YOUR LOOKING GREAT!

YOU KNOW ME, AL—The Kid Is on the "Up and Up"

I TALKED TO TWO OR THREE BIG FELLAS BUT THEY DONT SEEM TO WANT ANY PART OF YOUR KID. BUT ILL TRY AND LAND A BOUT WITH THIS GUY GUNGOAT BROWN.

SAY, THIS BOY HAS GOT A REP NOW AND WHEN EVER HE BOXES THEYLL FLOCK IN LIKE YOU WAS GIVING SOMETHING AWAY

YES, BUT WHO ARE YOU GOING TO GET TO TAKE HIM ON WHEN HE NEARLY KILLS EM IN A COUPLE OF ROUNDS. NOW SUPPOSING HE LET ROSEBUD STAY—SEE WHAT A LOT OF DOUGH A RETURN MATCH WOULD HAVE BROUGHT

WHEN I BOX - EITHER THEY GO OR I GO. THERE AINT ROOM ENOUGH BETWEEN THE ROPES FOR TWO OF US. IF I WANT TO PLAY HORSE, I GET A BROOM AND A WHIP - I DONT LIKE THESE FIGHTERS WELL ENOUGH TO PLAY GAMES WITH THEM

By Dick Dorgan

Ella Cinders—No Hope Yet!

ELLA'S FOUND. She was kidnapped and clamped into a sanitarium by persons unknown yet! And now come doctors equipped with all the latest computations to test her sanity! Imagine that!

IF WHISKERS WERE WISDOM, YOU TWO COULD MAKE SOPRANES LOOK LIKE A HALF-WIT! GIVE YOURSELVES THOSE TESTS - I DONT NEED THEM ANY MORE THAN A PICCOLLO NEEDS A PICK.

IT'S PLAIN TO ME THAT SHE'S LOCO IN THE GOOD!

A CASE OF VOX POPULI SPIRITUS FRUMENTI!

PLEASE, PLEASE HOLD ME TO GET OUT OF THIS IDIOTIC SITUATION! IM AS SANE AS YOU ARE! AND IM RICH BESIDES. ILL PAY YOU WELL!

GOVERNMENTS REST ON FORCE, DECLARES LEJEUNE TO WOMEN

Marine Corps Commandant Addresses Members of Legion of World War.

MISS DONNELLY NAMED AS PRESIDENT OF ORDER

Convention Votes $100 to the District War Memorial Fund.

Every government, including that of the United States, rests on force, Maj. Gen. John A. Lejeune, commandant of the United States Marine Corps, told the women attending the convention of the American Women's Legion of the World War yesterday afternoon, in the Red Cross building.

"Governments live only because they are backed up by force," he said. "Otherwise, a minority could overthrow the government, as they did in Russia." The speaker asserted that this government depended on force more than most people realized. Force used by the British government in keeping order during the current strike in the island was pointed to by the speaker.

"The great mass of people are indifferent to preparedness," Gen. Lejeune continued, "and they soon forget the lessons of war." Patriotic bodies were lauded by the speaker for keeping before the public the necessity of preparedness in times of peace.

Wants Patriotic Bloc.

"I believe in a patriotic bloc, we have all other kinds of blocs and why not a patriotic one?" the general asked. The women adopted a resolution proposing that members of the women's legion contribute a scholarship for the benefit of world war veterans and their direct descendants. A committee was appointed to draw up the scholarship and the executive board was authorized to appropriate sufficient funds from the treasury to finance it. The amount for the scholarship was left to the discretion of the board.

The convention also voted $100 toward the District world war memorial fund. The meeting was opened at 10 o'clock yesterday morning with the invocation by the Rev. H. H. D. Sterrett, and was called to order by the president, Mrs. Samuel Firth, of this city. Reports of the seven units of the legion represented at the convention were then given. These reports covered the work of the units at the local hospitals during the last year. Music for the morning session was furnished by the Marine Band orchestra.

President Elected.

Miss Mary E. Donnelly, 10 Tenth street northeast, was elected president of the organization. Other officers elected were: Mrs. James W. Wadsworth, Jr., wife of Senator Wadsworth, of New York, first vice president; Mrs. E. B. Thiele, second vice president; Mrs. Charles G. MacCartney, of Hyattsville, Md., third vice president; Miss Pauline Gates Long, secretary; and Mrs. E. H. Shaughnessy, treasurer.

Miss Donnelly in accepting the office declared that her slogan would be "double our membership this year, won't you help me?"

Park View Center To Hold May Party

Miss Maud P. Burkin, community secretary, is in charge of a May day celebration given by the Park View community center tonight at 8 o'clock at the Park View auditorium, Warder and Newton streets northwest. Miss Burkin is assisted by Mrs. Grace E. Kelsner, Miss F. S. Fairley, Mrs. R. H. Prescott, Mrs. George H. Russell and Mrs. John S. Cole.

The program will consist of exhibitions of the various activities of the year. Mrs. Nora K. Brammell will give the address of welcome. Those in charge of the numbers are Miss Dulcie Horner, Miss Jeanne Cavanaugh, Jules Lorrell, Miss Mamie Hastings, Miss Eva Smith, and Bobbie Rowe. Caleb Baum, Charlene Springguth, Smith Pickett, and Virginia Garner will dance. A play entitled "Just Women" will be given by the members of Park View Women's Club.

Newton Street Home Is Damaged by Fire

Fire of unknown origin yesterday caused damage estimated at $500 to a frame dwelling at 1233 Newton street northwest. The house, which is the property of the John E. Lord estate, was unoccupied. Firemen extinguished the flames before they could spread to adjoining homes.

Grease, ignited by heat from a stove, set fire to the kitchen of James and George Robinson at 204 E street southwest yesterday morning. Damage estimated at $200 was caused.

Making of Prints Shown at Exhibit

"How Prints Are Made" is the title of an exhibition of etchings, lithographs, half-tones, engravings, and many other kinds of pictures now being held in Harding hall, government printing office, every day except Sunday between the hours of 10 a. m. and 10 p. m. The public is invited.

This exhibit has been prepared by the National museum to show and describe practically every well-known process for making pictures. The difference between the various kinds of prints, both ancient and modern, is graphically shown.

Jury Finds Soldier Of Unsound Mind

Ernest B. Williams, alleged insane soldier patient at St. Elizabeths hospital, who wrote a letter to John W. Weeks, former Secretary of War, complaining of countless alleged acts of cannibalism, murder, murderous assault and other aggravated crimes at the National Home for Disabled Soldiers at Tagus, Me., was denied his liberty yesterday by Justice Stafford in criminal court, who dismissed a petition for a writ of habeas corpus.

According to the records, Williams shot and killed a doctor at the home on May 25, 1925. He was shortly thereafter committed to St. Elizabeths. The letter to Mr. Weeks, and the answer of Dr. William A. White, superintendent of the insane asylum, were presented to a jury, which found Williams to be of unsound mind.

EAST WASHINGTON GROUP TO CONSIDER CIVIC NEEDS

Boosters Association to Meet for Discussion of Budget and Zoning.

The East Washington Boosters association, composed of a membership representing the greater number of the associations of East Washington, will hold a meeting next week to consider items affecting the eastern sections in the budget for the coming year, and also zoning matters. E. J. Brennan, president of the association, declared yesterday.

Members of the association are making a survey of the needs of their respective communities, and will report at the meeting, Mr. Brennan said.

The zoning matters to be considered are the subject of the hearing before the zoning commission this morning, when nearly every citizens association in the city, it is said, will protest against the substitution of the zone "AA" for "A" restricted, the purpose of which would be immediately to throw open all "A" restricted areas, according to the construction placed upon it.

The eastern associations are particularly opposed to this change, Mr. Brennan said. A large part of eastern Washington, which is building up along all its borders, would be affected by it, he said. "Communities which have grown up in a few years, and have appropriated the 'A' restricted zone for their protection, are uniting in a concerted effort to prevent its being changed, he said.

HUSBAND FOLLOWS HIS WIFE IN SUICIDE

J. W. Meehan Shoots Self Six Days After the Death of Mate.

Grieving over the suicide of his wife last Friday, Joseph Vincent Meehan, 42 years old, yesterday fired a bullet from a revolver through his brain while seated in an easy chair at his home, 4127 Seventh street northwest. Coroner J. Ramsay Nevitt issued a certificate of suicide.

Meehan told his sister, Mrs. Annie M. McKenna, he was going to see a real estate man and sell the house. He visited a real estate office and then went to the house, placed his favorite easy chair near the window of the room in which his wife's body had lain before the funeral, and ended his life.

When the real estate salesman called later he was unable to arouse any one in the house. He notified Mrs. Margaret Simmons, Meehan's niece. She opened the door and found her uncle, his hand still grasping the revolver. He was pronounced dead by Dr. Joseph Villapiano, of Casualty hospital.

Fraternity to Start Educational Drive

The Alpha Phi Alpha negro collegiate fraternity, it was announced last night through Raymond W. Cannon, general president, will start Sunday in all colored educational institutions and churches its seventh annual "Go to High School—Go to College" drive. Plans have been developed to make the drive here the most intensive since its beginning in 1919.

All negro Greek letter fraternities and collegiate sororities, since the Alpha fraternity initiated the movement, have developed similar drives. Robert M. Ryan, head of Tuskegee institute, for the current year, has succeeded in expanding the idea to include in its scope other negro fraternal organizations which have set aside more than $50,000 in secondary and collegiate scholarships for the next school year.

BOXING PROMOTER FOUND GUILTY; TO FILE APPEAL

State Holds Payment of Club Dues Constitutes Direct Admission Charge.

EIGHT OTHERS FACE TRIAL

Pugilistic exhibitions in the District, which are arranged by individuals or organizations under a club membership and assessment proposition, were given a severe jolt yesterday in criminal court when Frank Dane, president of the National Capital Sporting club, was found guilty on an indictment charging a violation of section 876 of the District penal code.

This section prohibits any pugilistic encounter in instances where an admission fee is charged directly or indirectly. The penalty is not more than five years in prison.

The jury acquitted John Cody and Philip Raymond, who were alleged to have been paired for the first bout. The police of the Tenth precinct raided the Arcade on the night of January 1 and arrested these defendants and eight other alleged pugilists. Dane is named as defendant in each of five indictments. There are four other indictments pending and each of them name two of the alleged pugilists. Assistant District Attorneys O'Leary and Fihely contended that the club membership proposition called for the assessment of so much money per member and was therefore an indirect method of charging an admission fee. Attorneys O'Shea and Burnett, counsel for Dane, will appeal. Dane is at liberty under bond pending hearing on motion for a new trial.

U. S. PATIENT LEAVES LAND WORTH $35,000

Inmate of Hospital Dies Before He Can Benefit by Sister's Will.

Enoch L. McNulty, inmate of the Government Hospital for the Insane, who died November 9 last, left real estate in Missouri and Texas valued at more than $35,000, according to the petition for letters of administration filed yesterday in probate court by Austin F. Canfield. McNulty died the day after Canfield had arranged to provide numerous comforts out of the income from the estate, which apparently had been lost track of until Canfield traveled almost 5,000 miles to locate a will of Miss Katherine McNulty, sister of Enoch, who originally owned the property. Miss McNulty left all her property to her brother, who seemed to have been forgotten after being sent to St. Elizabeths hospital.

Canfield learned from talking to Miss McNulty's neighbors in South-east Washington that she owned property and had left a will. Miss McNulty died January 20, 1925. Canfield then journeyed about the middle West until he located the will. Dr. Austin A. Hayden, of Chicago, a cousin of McNulty, inherits the property.

Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont Here for Conference

Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont, of New York, president of the National Woman's Party, conferred in Washington yesterday with leaders of the party, preparatory to sailing for Paris, where she will represent the party at the world convention of the International Suffrage Alliance, May 30 to June 6. She will attend the annual conference of the National Woman's Party in Baltimore May 10 and 11.

The question of industrial equality for women, in connection with which the Woman's Party is leading the campaign in this country against protective legislation, is scheduled for first place on the Paris program. "This question," said Mrs. Belmont, "at present divides the women of every nation in which it has not already been settled in favor of full equality. The Woman's Party wishes to add its strength to those other industrial groups in Paris supporting the equal rights principles."

Clothing Is Sought by Near East Relief

Wednesday, May 26, will be Near East Relief bundle day in the District, Harold F. Pellegrin, photo-mac director, announced yesterday. Any old clothing, if it is warm and wearable, will be most welcome, he stated. The garments are asked for 30,000 orphans in the shelters and under the care of the relief organization and women in refugee camps. The bundles are to be taken to bundle stations which will be established in many parts of the city and will have bundle day banners. Clothing may also be left at Washington headquarters, 321 Bond building.

VIVISECTION HELPS STUDY OF SCIENCE, DOCTORS DECLARE

Senate Committee on Fletcher Bill Told of Successful Experiments.

DOGS AID FOOD BUREAU WORK, DIRECTOR ASSERTS

Discoveries for Betterment of Live Stock Held Due to Study of Animals.

The medical profession has made "marvelous progress" in the study and cure of human diseases and experiments on animals have helped considerably to make this progress possible, members of the profession declared before the Senate District subcommittee holding hearings yesterday on the bill introduced by Senator Fletcher, of Florida. The measure prohibits the use of animals for such experiments in the district and insular possessions.

Opposing the bill, the doctors told the committee that the use of animals was of material assistance and the proposed prohibition would work serious harm to scientific research and study.

It would be impossible to carry on work for the National Tuberculosis association if he was barred from using animals for study, Dr. W. H. C. White, of the medical research committee of the association, declared.

Use of Dogs Held Essential.

The use of dogs is essential to the work of his bureau, Dr. E. W. Schwartz, of the bureau of chemistry, of the Agriculture Department, declared. His bureau is charged with enforcement of the pure food and drug act.

Mention of the fact that some dogs had been reserved from the district pound brought the promise of an investigation by Walter Stillson Hutchins, a supporter of the bill, who interrupted the chemist's testimony.

Dr. Reid Hunt, of the Harvard Medical college, and an officer of the American Pharmacopoeia, told the committee that enactment of the bill would conflict with the pure food and drug act, as animals were used to test products.

"There is no better way, because humans can not be experimented upon," he added.

Among these discoveries he named development of ether as an anesthetic, a drug for the relief of asthma, and a recent German discovery of a drug to stimulate respiration.

Eastern High to Give Second Spring Play

"The Boomerang," by Winchell Smith and Victor Mapes, has been chosen as the second spring play by Eastern High school. This is the first year more than one spring play has been given. "The Boomerang" will be presented in the school auditorium on May 14 and 15. "Arms and the Man," given earlier this spring, was awarded the Brown university cup.

Treasury Prepares To Plan Buildings

The Treasury architect's office will assemble architects, engineers and city planners to proceed soon with work permissible under its first year's $10,000,000 appropriation for the public buildings program, which was passed by the Senate Wednesday, but it is doubtful if any actual construction will be begun before spring, next year.

The appropriation will not be available until December, and the fine arts commission, public buildings commission and supervising architect of the Treasury must first arrange the program.

District Government Outlined for Pupils

A paper outlining the government of the District, written by Daniel E. Garges, secretary of the board of commissioners, has been adopted for use in the public schools here, it was learned yesterday.

Textbooks on civics contain little about the form of government here. Therefore, it was decided to supplement the books with Mr. Garges' paper. Mimeograph copies have been ordered by Assistant Superintendent of Schools R. L. Haycock, and will be distributed among the pupils in the eighth grade.

Police Bill Action Delayed.

Action on the bill to increase the powers of Mrs. Mina C. Van Winkle, police lieutenant in charge of the woman's bureau of the District police department, was again postponed yesterday by the House District committee. It will be taken up at a special meeting this morning.
